"No persons are obtuse in their auricular apprehension equal to those who repudiate vocal by adverse inclinations."

Storm-tossed mariner of the Ways and Means committee lands a comfortable life berth ashore in Sailors' Snug Harbor.

The Bureau of Efficiency suggests a plan for reducing the District's paint bill, but is anything to be done about the cost of white-wash?

Charlie Curtis is endorsed by Kansas, and Bill White's famous query is at last answered in the negative.

The action of the Supreme Court in upholding the principle of cooperative marketing doubtless will only serve to intensify the belief of the advocates of the equalization fee that there's something wrong about it.

Federal Trade Commissioner Myers talks, and talks, and talks to a Senate committee without making a dent in the galvanized impenetrability of Borah and Walsh.

"A fallacy in your reply. Our intellect desecrates. Although we don't pretend to spy exactly where it lies."

It is gratifying to record that the Pan-American conference at Havana finally adjourns with a batch of resolutions instead of revolutions, the substitution of that first for the v standing as Charlie Hughes' most signal triumph. How they love us! "None shall part us from each other, One in love and life are we—All in all to one another, I to thee and thou to me."

The Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce permits it to be known that in a short time a few more Yankee Consuls can devote all their time to pouring tea.

Indicting the G. O. P. for various things, etc., Prosecuting Attorney Jim Reed tries the first case at Dallas, and the jury is still out.

Senator Reed also calls for the dismissal of a "vast army of spies, snoopers, sneaks and informers" with the courage which in the past has not prevented him from taking a stand on a moral issue and hurling his defiance at the majority.

Not a single politician in this country so much as thought of the idea of sending Civil War and Spanish War mothers and widows to the graves of their soldier dead at Government expense, but women didn't vote then.

No better pair than Prince Gustav Adolph and Secretary Kellogg, of Minnesota, could have been picked for opening telephonic communication between the United States and Sweden—they ban pretty important Swede fallars, by yimminy. We shall now hear that the Administration has appointed a Norwegian postmaster.

Speaking of Presidential candidates, it must be admitted that Charles Evans Hughes wasn't too old to score a notable diplomatic triumph at Havana. Boy, page Charlie Hilles!

Florida lady asks $25,000 for one stolen kiss. As Shakespeare economically said, "Take, O take those lips away!"

Slim Lindy delivers the postcards. Like the letter carrier described by Herodotus, "Neither snow, nor rain, nor heat, nor night, stays these couriers from the swift completion of their appointed rounds."

Scientists ridicule the idea that a horned toad could have lived 31 years sealed up in a Texas corner stone, as most of the period was prior to the Volstead era.

It is understood by the Anti-Saloon League that Mr. Hoover's reply to Senator Borah will look as though it had been sealed up in a Texas corner stone for 231 years.

News of the appointment of Chairman Green to the Court of Claims should be broken to National Committeeman Maschke by degrees, as it would never do to permit a good Republican to laugh himself to death.

We are still hopeful that the Administration's constructive naval building program will pass the House without any serious reduction in the existing tonnage.

Jimie Walker is welcomed at the Mardi Gras in N'Orleans "by screaming sirens." Saus! boys, he's married!

It was a very dainty thing, the introduction of Food Controller Herbert Hoover as the man who, during the war, "showed his country how to find its soul," but our recollection of him in 1917 is of the man who showed his country how to forget its belly.

ORGIES BY KU KLUX AND RAIDS ON FOES RELATED IN INDIANA

Senators Here "Wined and Dined," Former Cyclops Alleges.

ROBINSON WAS AIDED, DEPOSITION CHARGES

Violence Reported Favored; Statements Taken in the State Ouster Suit.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 20 (A.P.).—A sensational tale of alleged political intrigue, involving the Ku Klux Klan, horse-thief detective associations, gun-toting preachers and the Indiana Anti-Saloon League was unfolded here today by Hugh F. ("Pat") Emmons, a former Ku Klux Klan cyclops, in a deposition given to Attorney General Arthur L. Gillion. The attorney general will use it in connection with a suit he brought recently to oust the Klan from Indiana.

Emmons, who between 1923 and 1926 inclusive, said he was associated with Valley Klan No. 53, of South Bend, and St. Joseph County, declared he had been told by W. Lee Smith, Indianapolis, until recently grand dragon, that the secret order was formed for the purpose of getting political control of the United States.

For eight hours Emmons unraveled the story of how, he said, the Klan stuffed ballot boxes, used whisky to win elections, raided men "in bad" with the organization, and boycotted Catholics and Jews who were in business.

Two Sets of Principles. "It was a kind of double-crossing proposition," he said, after alleging that men were brought into the Klan on one set of principles and given another set to follow when they had taken their oaths.

Joe Huffington, of Evansville, present grand dragon, was described to Emmons by W. Lee Smith as "the fastest man with a gun that had ever been brought into Indiana."

Emmons said he and Charles J. Orblison, Indianapolis attorney, helped Huffington in the Evansville city election in 1925, and that later Huffington told him (Emmons) that "it took a lot of whisky and money and some stuffing of the ballot boxes to put that election over." Herber Miles was elected mayor.

Orblison, an attorney for the Klan and former Superior Court judge, represented that organization at the deposition taking, frequently objecting to the questions that Gillion put the witness.

Lavish Expenditures. Lavish expenditures of money by prominent Klan leaders, orgies at roadhouses, hate-inspiring speeches, boycott of business establishments, and the attempted boycott of at least one newspaper in Indiana, were charged by the witness. He said the Valley Klan, No. 53, finally lost its charter when it no longer would give money to the State and national organizations.

On one occasion, Emmons said, Hiram Wesley Evans, imperial wizard of the Klan, told him that if the situation at Herrin, Ill., did not improve, he would send gunmen down there "to clean things up." The conversation with Evans occurred in Chicago, just after Emmons had returned from Herrin from the funeral of S. Glenn Young, the witness said.

Emmons, as exalted cyclops of St. Joseph County, was advised by a representative of the imperial office that the way to get members was to "beat up somebody" and use some tar and feathers. He said a man named Sirman declared the South Bend Klan needed a little more Southern spirit and that "if they took some one out in this Catholic city and gave them a good beating and tarred and feathered somebody, membership would increase by hundreds," Emmons said Sirman told him.

No Money for Charity. Not one dime, the witness added, of Klan finances, so far as he ever heard of, was spent for charitable purposes.

Discussing a sentence for contempt imposed on Shumaker by the Indiana Supreme Court, Dr. Shumaker on one occasion, according to Emmons, said it would be a good thing if he served his sentence because it would "bring out sentiment" in favor of the Anti-Saloon League.

Emmons was unable to produce some documents which he said would substantiate statements he had made in his deposition. He said they were in possession of United States Senator James Reed, having been given to him following Emmons' testimony before the Reed campaign investigating committee a year or more ago.

The name of Dr. E. S. Shumaker, superintendent of the Indiana Anti-Saloon League, was linked with the Klan's work by the witness. He said Dr. Shumaker at a South Bend meeting in 1924 had said the Klan, the horse-thief detective association, Indiana Anti-Saloon League and all Protestants must work together. Dr. Shumaker, the witness continued, declared "we should go down the line for Arthur Robinson."

(Arthur R. Robinson is now Indiana's junior United States senator.) Emmons told of having been introduced to Senator Robinson, who, he said, gave him the Klan handclasp.

Green of Iowa Appointed To Court of Claims Bench

Chairman of House Ways and Means Committee, Foe of Mellon Tax Plan, Named by President Over Willis Candidate.

By CARLISLE BARGERON. Representative William R. Green, of Iowa, chairman of the House ways and means committee, was yesterday named by President Coolidge to be a member of the United States Court of Claims. As soon as his nomination has been confirmed by the Senate, Mr. Green plans to resign from the House. He will be succeeded in his important chairmanship, in all probability, by Representative Willis C. Hawley, of Oregon.

Thus in one stroke the administration, whether so intended or not, will give a life-time job to a man whose seat in Congress is not so secure; removes from the ways and means chairmanship one who has not always been in accord with its policy and strikes a rather stiff blow at the presidential aspirations of Senator Willis, of Ohio.

It would require quite a stretch of the imagination to believe that this latter factor was an influence in the appointment, but it is a fact that in the Court of Claims vacancy the President had the opportunity to be of considerable assistance to the Ohio senator, and, to say the least, did not take advantage of it.

Mr. Green has served the Ninth Iowa Congressional District for seventeen years and he is now serving in his third Congress as chairman of the powerful ways and means committee, from which all matters relating to revenue

Senator Willis, with his colleague Senator Fess, had urged the appointment of Israel M. Foster, of Ohio. Quite an issue was made of it, and had he been appointed, it would have been a feather of no mean proportions in Senator Willis' cap. It would have endeared him to Mr. Foster's large circle of industrial friends. Mr. Foster also being an influence himself. As it is, Senator Willis is placed in the light after making known that he planned to use his patronage influence to aid him to attain the Presidency, of losing the first appointment he sought.

The loss will be particularly keen because sometime ago Senator Fess sought the appointment of Mr. Foster to a Federal district judgeship in Ohio. Senator Willis opposed it. His hope of regaining Mr. Foster's friendship lay in having him appointed to the claims court.

Mr. Green has served the Ninth Iowa Congressional District for seventeen years and he is now serving in his third Congress as chairman of the powerful ways and means committee, from which all matters relating to revenue

PILGRIMAGE OF MOTHERS TO DEAD ABROAD VOTED

House Bill Would Send Gold Star Women to France at Federal Expense.

PASSES WITHOUT DEBATE

(Associated Press.) Without protest or debate, the House yesterday approved a bill to enable mothers and widows of war veterans buried in Europe to make a pilgrimage to American cemeteries overseas at Government expense. The widows would be restricted to those who have not remarried.

The measure, which now goes to the Senate, would empower the President, in cooperation with the American Red Cross, to arrange for the pilgrimage "at any time during the period of three years from July 1, 1928."

The mothers and widows would be taken to Europe in groups. Each group would remain abroad approximately two weeks, and in no case longer than three weeks unless return transportation were unavailable. First-class accommodations would be provided either on Government-owned or chartered ships. Passports would be arranged for by the State Department and immigration laws would be suspended in the case of aliens.

The bill, sponsored by Chairman Butler, of the House naval committee, would not call for a specific appropriation, authorizing the expenditure of "such sum as may be necessary."

During consideration of the bill by the House military committee it was estimated by Mrs. Mathilda A. Burling, national representative of the Gold Star Mothers Association of America, that not in excess of 3,000 mothers would desire to make the trip. There

6 Stowaways Die Of Suffocation on Ship

Tokyo, Feb. 20 (A.P.).—The bodies of six Japanese who attempted to smuggle themselves into America were found today in the hold of the Yahiko Maru, which arrived from Seattle, Wash., Friday.

The ship's cook confessed to hiding them in the hold on December 20, when the Yahiko Maru sailed for Seattle. From brief notes the men left it was believed they suffocated before the ship left Yokohama, after which the cook became frightened and kept their death secret until the ship returned to Japan.

ROBBER GETS $4,500 IN CASH AND JEWELS

William P. Moses, Forced to Drive Car to Dark Spot at Pistol Point.

William P. Moses, 609 F street northeast, last night was robbed of approximately $1,000 in cash and jewelry valued at $3,500 after being forced by a robber to get in his car and drive around the block. A watch and $400 in bills were overlooked. The robber then escaped with an accomplice.

Moses, accompanied by Joseph Shapiro, 20 years old, 1400 North Capital street, had just gotten out of his car which he had parked before his home when the robber, gun in hand, ran up and commanded both to get back in it. Threatening to shoot if he was not obeyed, the robber directed Moses to proceed around to Seventh street northeast, between E and F streets. At a dark place in the street he was ordered to stop. There another robber jumped upon the running board of the car.

In their haste the robbers overlooked $400 Moses had in one of his pockets. Although they searched Shapiro, nothing was taken from him. After disconnecting a wire in the engine, the robbers fled in an automobile. Moses is the proprietor of a garage at 1418 North Capital street.

FORDS GOT LINCOLN FIRM BY FRAUD, LELANDS SAY

Repudiated Contract to Reimburse Stockholders, Former Heads Charge in Suit.

ASK $6,000,000 DAMAGES

Pontiac, Mich., Feb. 20 (A.P.).—Properties of the Lincoln Motor Co. were obtained by a "species of fraud," attorneys for Henry M. and Wilfred C. Leland charged in a brief filed in circuit court today in the suit brought by the Lelands against Henry and Edsel Ford seeking $6,000,000 in behalf of 2,000 stockholders. The Lelands charge the Fords repudiated a contract to reimburse stockholders for loss in connection with the sale of the properties in 1922.

The Ford attorneys have taken the position that the Fords should not be called upon to answer the bill of complaint. Briefs were filed by both sides on this point today.

The Leland brief says in part: "The Fords obtained the Lincoln properties by virtue of their promises to us. To retain these properties and to break their promises to us is a species of fraud. And charged with that fraud, they now seek to perpetuate it against 2,000 plaintiffs by resort to technicalities that are not even specious, rather than, as would an innocent man, demand a prompt trial that

Florida-to-Detroit Fliers Hurt in Crash

Parkersburg, W. Va., Feb. 20 (A.P.).—An airplane, en route from Florida to Detroit, was damaged and Ben Way, the pilot, was injured today when engine trouble forced the ship down at Belleville, near here.

A passenger escaped uninjured.

RESCUES BLIND WIFE FROM BURNING HOUSE

Trapped by Fire, Husband Leaps With Her From Window.

Special to The Washington Post. Martinsburg, W. Va., Feb. 20.—An early-morning fire here today destroyed the home of James Grove and damaged the adjoining home of Stansbury Shade. Grove rescued his wife Mrs. Cora Grove, who is blind, by leaping with her from a window when fire had cut off all means of other escape.

The fire, whose cause is undetermined, was making rapid headway, when Grove discovered it. Unable to escape neighbors, when he found all other means of egress cut off, he carried Mrs. Grove to the window and jumped with her. His wife was slightly injured in the fall.

The Shade family was unaware of the fire danger until Mr. Shade heard window glass in his house cracking under the heat. He roused neighbors who summoned the fire department. One fireman was slightly overcome by smoke and exposure to the cold.

Fascism Denounced Before Italian Envoy

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 20 (A.P.).—One arrest was made as police quelled an antifascist demonstration that greeted the arrival here today of Baron Giacomo de Martino, Italian Ambassador to the United States.

About 100 antifascists who had gathered at the Union Station when the ambassador arrived, shouted denunciations of the Mussolini government as Baron de Martino was escorted through police lines to a waiting automobile and whisked through the streets to a hotel.

There were no attempts at violence and police dispersed the crowd after arresting one man for disturbance.

REED BEGINS TOUR, ATTACKING G. O. P. IN DALLAS SPEECH

Mismanagement for 7 Years Is Charged by Missouri Senator.

REFUSES TO DISCUSS ANY OF HIS RIVALS

Abolition of Control by Boards and Bureaus Urged to Texas Democrats.

Dallas, Tex., Feb. 20 (A.P.).—Democratic party principles were put above individual candidates "including myself" by the militant Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, as he visited today with Texas political leaders, newspaper men and old friends.

Opening a speaking tour through the West, the veteran campaigner put in a busy day from his arrival early in the morning, making two speeches and holding open house meanwhile in his hotel room. On the outside of the building hung a sign:

"Reed for President headquarters." At the outset he informed newspaper men that he would "not discuss candidates" and "care more for the principles of the Democratic party." Asked about Gov. Al Smith of New York, he reiterated that he would "not discuss Mr. Smith."

Touch Lightly on Politics. Throughout the day in his room with Texas Democrats he followed that course. With their prize of 40 votes in the Democratic convention, the party leaders touched lightly on politics, and when they did mention it, the Missouri led the conversation into other channels. Many wore large buttons with the sign "Reed is right."

Speaking before the Dallas Bar Association at noon, the senator hammered on his favorite topic "return to States' rights" and he was applauded as he denounced the growth of Federal Government and urged that this Government "recognize as its one and prime object the protection of the welfare of American citizens."

He mentioned the prohibition law in connection with the growth of Federal power, but stated only that "in this case the Supreme Court held that if Congress said a thing was intoxicating, it was intoxicating."

"Texas Likes Jim Reed." He was told by Carl B. Callaway, president of the Bar Association, in opening the noon meeting that Texas may differ with the views of Senator Reed, "but Texas likes Jim Reed." Mr. Callaway was vigorously applauded as he described the "Missourian" as a "fighter" and one who "has the courage of his convictions."

Asked by the newspaper men if he believed his antagonism to Woodrow Wilson would hurt him in Texas, the senator replied that "Texas has a habit of doing as it pleases." As for American intervention in Nicaragua he

Navy Air Champion Turns Outside Loop

Lieut. Al Williams, Navy air speed champion, succeeded in negotiating the rare and difficult outside loop in a landplane at Anacostia Naval Air Station yesterday afternoon.

Lieut. Williams, now on duty here in connection with the outfitting of a high-speed Navy plane, successfully executed dangerous outside loops which involve the risk of jarring pilots loose from their planes.

Irving Berlin's Wife, Ill, Must Remain in West

Song Writer Reported Negotiating for Ranch as Couple's Home—Many Mackay Intimates Say Telegraph Magnate's Attitude Toward Daughter Weakening.

Special to The Washington Post. New York, Feb. 20.—Mrs. Irving Berlin, the former Ellen Mackay, has contracted a serious illness that will make her return East inadvisable for an indefinite period, the Morning Telegraph has learned from one close to the Broadway song writer.

The Berlins are now in Southern California. Their baby is with them. Berlin, it is reported, is negotiating for a ranch property in Arizona, where the Berlin's restoration to health, Mrs. Berlin's physician has diagnosed her ailment as pernicious anemia, but it is now feared more serious complications have developed.

When the Berlins started West it was whispered along Broadway that Berlin himself was in poor health and that the trip was taken to rebuild his physique.

The effect of his daughter's illness upon stern Clarence Mackay, the head of Postal Telegraph, who has declined to see her since her marriage to Berlin, is problematical. Many of the fashionable Long Islanders in the Mackay circle believe "he will forgive and go West to see Ellen and the grandchild."

Others declare that Mackay will maintain his present attitude to the end. He has refused to permit the mention of Ellen's name in his home, it is reported, and her suite in the Mackay palace on Long Island has been locked since she left there to become Berlin's bride, the knowing ones add.

While his wife remains in the West Berlin will make only necessary business trips to New York. They are never apart, and friends say they are more in love with each other than at the time of their honeymoon.

Berlin recently sent to his publishers a new song, "Sunshine."

It has been Berlin's policy to chronologize the important events in his life in song. "All Alone" was written before his marriage, when Ellen Mackay was abroad.

"Remember" was composed soon after their marriage. "The Song Is Ended" was written when Mrs. Berlin's illness first showed signs of weakening. "The Melody Lingers On," showing a strong hope of her ultimate recovery, "Sunshine" is called an early strain, with its words a psalm of hope that the West's sunny climate can effect miracles.

LINDBERGH CARRIES RECORD MAIL LOAD ON HIS OLD ROUTE

Covers St. Louis-Chicago Course of 286 Miles Without Incident.

EVADES BIG CROWD BY RIDING IN TRUCK

Guest of His Former Buddies in Postal Work; Title Again Is "Slim."

Chicago, Feb. 20 (A.P.).—After a year's absence, Col. Charles Lindbergh returned to the air mail tonight, flying his old route between St. Louis and Chicago.

He landed in Chicago at 7:46 o'clock tonight, covering the 286-mile route in 2 hours and 53 minutes of flying time without incident except for unusual delays at the stopping points, caused by the heavy volume of mail, virtually 100,000 pieces being distributed between the five mail planes.

A crowd of more than 6,000 persons awaited the flier at the Chicago municipal airport, but turned away disappointed when Lindbergh landed unannounced and climbed into a truck and was away without any one of the crowd catching a glimpse of him.

Search Trucks for Him. So methodically did he move that it was not until sixteen minutes after he landed was it known he had reached Chicago. At 8 o'clock airport officials made known Lindbergh had arrived, but had departed at once to an unannounced destination.

The crowd immediately broke out the field and began searching the mail trucks for the flier. Many of the crowd stayed on, believing Lindbergh had not really landed.

The flier's action in Chicago was not entirely unexpected, because he had said he wanted to make the flight as an ordinary air mail pilot without ostentations. He said he wanted to be just one of the "buddies" again and objected to any sort of demonstration.

His trip took him from St. Louis to Springfield. He took off at St. Louis at 4:25 and landed at Springfield at 5:14, elapsed flying time of 49 minutes. After discharging the local mail there and taking on a new shipment for Peoria and Chicago, he took the air again in another plane, circled the field and landed again, climbed in his first plane and headed for Peoria, at 5:32.

To Peoria in 10 Minutes.

Forty minutes later he landed at the Peoria field, at 6:12, halting only ten minutes to discharge mail and take on a new cargo for Chicago. At 6:22 he headed for Chicago and one hour and 24 minutes later he arrived at the Municipal Air Port.

Lindbergh's was the third of the six planes which left St. Louis to land in Chicago, the five ships carrying more than 100,000 pieces of mail, the largest air mail shipment in the history of aviation. The sixth plane carried movie men.

The first to land was piloted by Thomas Nelson, who made a nonstop

WOMAN GUEST KILLS SELF AT HOTEL IN ALEXANDRIA

Registered as Mrs. Beth Reid of Los Angeles, and Left $450 With Clerk.

BULLET PIERCES BREAST

With a bullet wound in the left breast, the body of a woman who registered at the George Mason Hotel, Alexandria, Va., as Mrs. Beth Reid, of Los Angeles, was found about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon in her room at the hotel. On a chair nearby was a 32-caliber revolver, with one bullet discharged, and the authorities believe that she committed suicide, although a coroner's certificate issued later did not state who fired the shot.

The body was found by a colored maid scarcely four hours after Mrs. Reid had registered. No one had heard the shot, and the maid found the body while making her usual afternoon rounds.

Mrs. Reid registered at the hotel about noon, and asked the desk clerk to take care of $450 which was locked up in the hotel safe. She then went to her room on the fourth floor, and appeared a short time later in the dining room, where she took luncheon. She went back to her room directly.

The woman was expensively dressed, wearing a velvet gown with gold lace collar and cuffs. She had with her an overnight bag which bore the mark of a dealer in Omaha, Neb. In the bag were additional gowns, an expensive negligee and several sets of silk underwear. There was also an elaborate ivory toilet set. The police say that great care had been taken to remove all distinguishing marks such as initials and dealers' tags from the articles in the bag. A hat, which was found in the room, however, also had the tag of an

14 Men Entombed By Mine Explosion

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 20 (A.P.).—Fourteen men were entombed when an explosion wrecked the interior of the Kinlock mine of the Valley Camp Coal Co. at New Kensington near here tonight.

Members of the United States Bureau of Mines crew here were preparing to take charge of the rescue work at the diggings.

BISHOP AND A PRIEST ARRESTED IN MEXICO

Jose Maria Armora, Manuel Campa and Third Man to Face Charges.

Mexico City, Feb. 20 (A.P.).—Jose Maria Armora, Bishop of Tamaulipas, has been arrested by the police together with Federico Escobar, in whose home the bishop had been hiding. The police merely announced his arrest and the exact charges against him will not be revealed until cited to the attorney general.

Another Mexican priest and a third man have also been arrested on charges believed to be connected with the Mexican religious laws. They are the Rev. Manuel Campa, who has been in charge of church affairs at San Luis Potosi, and Prisciliano Garza, who was captured at Monterrey.

Campa and Garza have been brought to Mexico City. Their arrests were believed to be the outcome of police investigation into the alleged antigovernment campaign conducted by Bishop Miguel de la Mora, the present director of the League for Defense of Religious Liberty. Garza was reported to have registered under his name all properties belonging to Bishop Mora, who, in accordance with the present Mexican constitution, is forbidden to own property.

Home of Crowe's Aid Bombed at Chicago

Chicago, Feb. 20 (A.P.).—A bomb explosion wrecked the hallway of an apartment building, the home of Lawrence Cuneo, brother-in-law and Secretary of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe. The police said they believed Cuneo was the target of the bomb, which came from the heels of the explosion Friday that wrecked the home of Judge John A. Sbarbaro, another Crowe ally.

The explosion tore out the front doorway.

ITALIANS PRESENT WORK OF COUNTRY IN OPERA FESTIVAL

Vettori and Pasquale Win New Laurels in Rendition of
"La Tosca" Last Night.

ROSE POLLIO, CAPITAL
GIRL AMONG SINGERS

Great Britain Will Hold Stage
Tonight in Presentation of
"Hugh, the Drover."

Italian grand opera, conducted by a famous Italian conductor and with a cast of principals chiefly Italian featured the International Festival of Opera last night at Poli's Theater. Puccini's tragic opera, "La Tosca," presented by the Washington National Opera Company under the direction of Edward Alton, general director of the company.

Two gifted children of Italy, Mme. Elida Vettori and Pasquale Amato of Metropolitan Opera fame, brought new operatic laurels to their country in their rendition last night of stellar roles in "La Tosca." Amato, a veteran of the operatic stage and veteran in the character of Scarpia, proved a fascinating villain and Mme. Vettori was an attractive La Tosca, full of the will of that opera heroine with a splendid voice capable of emotion's highest demand. Amato's surpassing knowledge of the business of the stage made him the center of it whenever he appeared.

Naturally the rendition of these singers was impeccable for it was their native tongue. Mme. Vettori's perfect Italian was an added joy in the great soprano aria of the opera, "Viva l'arte," by which a La Tosca is rightly judged.

Her Interpretation Satisfying.

She gave a most satisfying interpretation of its many beauties and her pianissimo effects were particularly well done and she sang the famous aria appealingly from a kneeling position, simply and sweetly and tenderly. Coming closely behind the achievement of Amato and Vettori was that of Paul Althouse, American tenor, and Mario Cavaradossi. The development of Paul Althouse as an opera singer has been noteworthy. Last night was no exception to his consistent good work during the festival. In the duo with La Tosca in the cathedral scene his voice appeared to great advantage and it was quickly recognized by the audience and attested to with applause.

This trio of principals seemed inspired by the joy in the heart of the wondrous music filled with passion, tragedy, rapid play of emotions and colorful descriptive values.

Franchetti Conducts With Skill.

Under the guiding baton of Aldo Franchetti, Italian conductor, the orchestral portion of the opera was as mightily part of the whole. With skill he developed its ensemble tone. It never failed in telling as an orchestra should the real story of the opera, although now and then it was somewhat too loud.

The score of "La Tosca" is written without prelude or overture. Again and again through other themes ran sweet echoes of far-away cathedral bells, whispered chords telling of moonlight scenes, rhythmic passages built on recurring themes of love, romance and tragedy, and great organ-tone effects rising to majesty in the stupendous Te Deum music, symphonic in character and unique in grand opera orchestration. The finale of Act I gave the orchestra its greatest opportunity of the night. Signor Franchetti saw to it that it was utilized successfully.

Giuseppe Cavaradossi as Spoleto was realistic in his acting and had a good voice capable of expressing dramatic feeling. Like the other Italian singers of the night, his interpretation of the opera was marked by real understanding. Ivan Sleschenko did well in the dual role of Cesare Angelotti and Scarpino, a jailer, and Rose Pollio, a Washington Opera aspirant, pleased the audience in the role of the girl.

Cathedral Scene Unique.

The elaborate settings necessary for "La Tosca" were furnished under the meticulous direction of Enrico Clay Dillon, director of the stage, and her mounting of the cathedral scene was unique and beautiful in particular.

The costumes were carefully done as well and quite in keeping with the period in which the story is set.

"La Tosca" gives the ensemble of an opera company plenty of occupation. Last night's chorus worked hard to accomplish all that was expected of it and the cantata with its sweet harmonies and several other choruses deserve special mention.

Appropos of the costume it is interesting to note that Mme. Vettori wore an attractive La Tosca in the costume of the second act, which was the gift of her sister, Miss Mariana Vettori. It was an empire gown, studded with thousands of rhinestones and small mirrors and attracted much attention from the feminine part of the audience.

Debut by American Tonight.

Great Britain will have its night in the International Festival tonight, when Vaughan Williams' romantic ballad opera in two acts, "Hugh, the Drover," is presented. Marie Montana, American soprano, will make her debut as an extra number of the festival on Friday night, with Maurice Caplan, French dramatic tenor, and Werther and Jeanne Gordon singing Charlotte.

McFadden Bank Bill

Is Passed by House

(Associated Press.)

The McFadden bill, under which State banks would be eligible to become Government depositories, was passed yesterday by the House and sent to the Senate.

Under the present law, they may serve as depositories for only postal savings funds, funds from an insolvent national bank and proceeds from the sale of bonds and certificates of indebtedness.

Woman Hurt by Auto.

Mrs. Leonora A. Jones, 45 years old, 1106 L street northwest, was injured yesterday afternoon when knocked down at East Executive avenue and Pennsylvania avenue northwest by an automobile driven by Harry E. Newcomer, 402 Delaware street northwest.

Jones was treated at Emergency Hospital for lacerations on her leg and possible fracture of the ribs.

18-Year Prison Term

For Assault on Girl

Vernon M. Schooley, 53 years old, of Clarendon, pleaded guilty to attempted carnal knowledge on a 7-year-old girl and was sentenced by Judge Samuel G. Brent, in the Circuit Court of Arlington County, yesterday, to serve eighteen years in the penitentiary at Richmond.

Hezekiah Lyons, colored, charged with assault upon Dorothy Dodson, colored, who died as the result of injuries received in the assault, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to twenty years. The grand jury for the February term, which convened yesterday, returned 44 indictments.

TRACTION VALUATION

UP TO DATE ORDERED

Among other proposed measures it was stated that the committee would contemplate demanding a roll call on the final vote concerning the merger so that a formal record will be made of the way each delegate voted; that Yaden will be asked to surrender the chair in view of the fact that he is a member of the bus company's board of directors; that Suter be called upon to furnish a list of the delegates to the federation invited to the consideration of the merger; that if further efforts are made to delay action on the merger by the federation, the committee will demand an ultimatum, that if it is not reached before the Public Utilities Commission hearings open February 29 that all of its members will resign their committee appointments in a body.

Wilson Lobby Held Fata.

"If the federation is to be controlled by a Wilson lobby in its consideration of the merger," said Clayton, "it will spell the death of the organized citizenship movement in the District."

In the meantime it was reported that trouble is brewing for Yaden in the Petworth Citizens' Association from which he is a delegate to the federation. This association meets tonight and some of its members are said to be planning a fight against acquisition of the Washington Rapid Transit bus lines by the consolidated traction company in serving as a member of the bus concern's board of directors.

Commerce Bureau

TO EXPAND TRADE

PROMOTION SERVICE

Six New Regional Offices Will

Be Located in U. S. and Eight Abroad.

(Associated Press.)

A marked expansion of the Commerce Department trade promotion service has been made possible by new congressional appropriations. Dr. Willis Klein, chief of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, declared yesterday that six new regional offices would be established in the United States and eight in trade centers abroad.

The money made available for the next fiscal year also will enable the bureau to complete three special market surveys covering 21 States.

New foreign offices will be located in Budapest, Hungary; Oslo, Norway; Winnipeg, Canada; Guatemala City, Guatemala; La Paz, Bolivia; Tientsin, China; Accra, West Africa, and Algiers.

The new domestic offices will be established at Denver, Indianapolis, Birmingham, Pittsburgh, Milwaukee, and some city yet to be selected in North Carolina.

The selection of sites for the new foreign offices was dictated by strategic trade considerations. Dr. Klein said, and the prospects of promoting American export business.

Canada Trade Large.

Hungary and Norway, two of the countries to which American trade has been expanding, are now less than 10 per cent of their imports from this country; Winnipeg was estimated as the center for Canadian trade with a total volume of $200,000,000 annually; and the West African port is located in a territory where 90 per cent of an increasing trade is in the hands of European countries.

Colored Social Study

Expert Speaks Tonight

Retention of the Western Market at Twenty-first and K streets was urged by the West End and the Lincoln Park Citizens Associations at meetings held last night. The Lincoln Park association also asked the continuance of the Eastern Market.

The West End organization adopted resolutions favoring national representation for the District. Resolutions asking that increased pay be given police and firemen were also adopted. Eugene Curtis and Philip O. McQueen gave illustrated lectures on the water supply.

In addition to taking up the market matter, the Lincoln Park body urged increased appropriations for the school system. Judge J. R. Johnson, president of the association, was nominated for election to the Citizens Advisory Council.

Benefit Dance Held

For Colored Students

Thirty young negro students for the Catholic priesthood, now at Bay St. Louis, Miss., were beneficiaries of a reception given by the Lincoln Park Citizens Association at the Lincoln Park Hotel, 1400 K street, last night. The entertainment was sponsored by a committee headed by W. A. Prater, chairman, and Joseph Wade, secretary.

AUTO THIEF SUSPECT

HELD OVERNIGHT HERE

Prisoner Caught Near Leesburg Accompanied by Officer of North Carolina Bureau.

Trailing a band of more than 20 persons accused of being involved in the "ring" of automobile thieves charged with the theft of 44 automobiles in a number of Southern States, Inspector A. C. Nichols, of the State Thievery Bureau of Automobiles of Raleigh, N. C., arrived here last night from Leesburg, Va., with Robert Shaffer Green, of High Point, N. C., a member of whom he sought quarters in a local police station pending the departure of a morning train for the District.

Beck's complexity in the automobile thefts, Green is charged with breaking into two banks, located at Bennett street and the District, and was arrested near Leesburg, Va., by the sheriff and deputies of Loudoun County. He was lodged at the Sixth Precinct.

Inspector Nichols said that the band of auto thieves made a practice of taking stolen cars into storage in the District, and that the cars were then sold for sale after successfully meeting the tests of the State's police.

The 44 stolen machines have been recovered, according to Nichols.

Fairfax School Term Cut

To Meet $10,000 Deficit

Fewer Teachers Also Proposed, Expense in County Being Called Too High at Meeting of Board of Education.

Stringent measures to cut the cost of education in Fairfax County were adopted yesterday by the school board at a special meeting. The first of these was a two-week term of the school year, a step which it is estimated will save about $7,500, and the second is the appointment of a special committee authorized to study the question of personnel with a view to curtailing the teaching force.

F. S. McCandlish submitted the two proposals and declared that it is urgent that the board take immediate action. He pointed out that the county is now the second highest in the State in per capita cost of instruction and second in the pay of teachers.

In the present year the school system has incurred a deficit of more than $10,000. It was pointed out, while much of this will be made up through cutting two weeks of the term, other steps are necessary, Mr. McCandlish declared. It is expected that the curtailment of the teaching and administrative force will so balance the budget that the system will be able to come out of the year without a serious deficit.

The school board adopted a tentative budget for the year 1928-1929, which lists expenditures at $225,000. This is a slight cut under the budget for the preceding year. The board also decided to recommend to the board of supervisors increased school levies in the Centerville District of 10 cents, and in the Lee and Mount Vernon Districts of 5 cents on each $100 of assessed value.

RESIGNS POST

COL. GREELEY QUILTS AS FORESTRY CHIEF

To Accept Position With West Coast Lumber Manufacturers Association.

Col. William B. Greeley, chief of the forest service of the Department of Agriculture since 1920, has resigned to accept a position with the West Coast Lumber Manufacturers Association, it was announced yesterday by Secretary J. H. R. V. Stuart, assistant forester in charge of public relations, who succeeded Col. Greeley.

Col. Greeley has been regarded for years as one of the most expert foresters in the United States. He entered the Department of Agriculture in 1904, he underwent a wide variety of experience in reforestation, supervision of timber sales and cooperative work in promoting fire protection. Prevention of disastrous fires through stimulation of a national pride in forestry has been one of Col. Greeley's achievements.

During the World War Col. Greeley had charge of 21,000 troops and 95 sawmills, while at present he has charge of more than 150,000 acres of Government land in the Pacific Northwest.

Col. Greeley was in the Department of Agriculture in 1904, he underwent a wide variety of experience in reforestation, supervision of timber sales and cooperative work in promoting fire protection. Prevention of disastrous fires through stimulation of a national pride in forestry has been one of Col. Greeley's achievements.

Havana, Feb. 20 (A.P.).—The sixth international conference of American states, known also as the Pan-American Congress, adjourned today and is sending to the governments of 21 republics of the New World a heavy batch of resolutions and conventions for ratification.

The delegates generally express satisfaction with the results of their labors in Havana. They point out that in this most dramatic Pan-American conference ever held the policies and opinions of all the countries were stated so candidly and forcefully that even if the differences among the nations were marked more clearly than the points of contact, still many illusions and misunderstandings which are so harmful to the materialization of Pan-Americanism, were swept away.

"The conference has done much. The discussion with regard to the Pan-American Union has resulted in a general consensus of opinion as to the appropriate organs of the Pan-American union, and it is on a firmer basis than ever before.

"An important convention has been adopted with respect to private aircraft. Gratifying progress has been made in the codification of international law. A sensible procedure has been established with respect to the perfecting of plans of conciliation and arbitration, which promises more for progress in this important field than any action heretofore taken in this hemisphere.

"Numerous resolutions have been adopted on subjects affording welcome opportunities for Pan-American cooperation. Above all, the delegates have been associated for weeks in fraternal contacts, and warm friendships have been formed.

"The delegates will return to their countries with clearer views of the conditions of successful collaboration and the understanding and good will, which of the essence of Pan-Americanism, have been promoted in notable degrees."

Signed by Twenty Nations.

The text of the final proceedings of the conference, including all motions, agreements, resolutions and conventions concluded here, was signed this morning by all the delegations excepting Paraguay, whose representative was absent from the plenary session at which the ceremony occurred. He signed the text later in the secretary's office.

Although this morning's signatures pledge approval of all the delegations to the agreements concluded, all the draft conventions will require a separate signature, which is fixed for tomorrow.

The ceremony will also include the farewell exercises and speeches having been reserved for the afternoon session where Dr. Bustamante, president of the conference, in the name of the Cuban government bade Godspeed to the delegates.

Upon Jacobo Varela, of Uruguay, fell the honor of replying to Dr. Bustamante, in the name of the foreign governments as the representative of the conference where the next Pan-American conference will be held. The chief function of the Pan-Americanism, he said, was "to reconcile the magnificent civilization of the States and the other civilization so characteristic of twenty republics, which perpetuate Hispanic traditions."

Americans Have Much in Common.

"To say that everything joins United States and Latin America and nothing separates them," said Senor Varela, "would only create deep misunderstandings or dangerous prejudices; the Americas have much in common, especially in Democratic principles and commercial and financial interests, and traditional policy regarding the rest of the world, which one republic enunciates and many lauded, but important interests and formalities hold back perfect harmony and collaboration. More than mere stock, different temperaments, a different intellectual outlook, more economic interests which remain apart and, above all, language, are diverging forces which only come to gether when the abyss of misunderstanding which still exists in important sections of public opinion in the north and south, shall be conquered.

The highest aim of the Pan-American Congress, Senor Varela added, was to "promote a better understanding for a fuller knowledge of the cultural and moral worth of both civilizations and for dispassionate examination and comparison of their interests and aspirations in an effort to reconcile them, in a spirit of harmony, and not intransigence."

NEW TREATY OFFER TO U. S. BY JAPAN TALKED AT GENEVA

Tokyo Will Revise Her Pacts
Against War, Envoy to Security Talk Says.

REGIONAL ACCORD PLAN
STIRS LATIN-AMERICANS

British Suggestion Finds but Little Favor; Guarantor
Selection Is Issue.

Geneva, Feb. 20 (A.P.).—Japan, believing that her arbitration treaties possibly are too far-reaching, may revise them, Viscount Saito, of that nation, said tonight. These treaties exclude from arbitration disputes that affect Japanese territorial and political independence, Japanese vital interests or Japanese honor.

The viscount's announcement, made at the preliminary security conference convened to promote disarmament, created some uneasiness among Latin-American delegates who are wondering whether Japan will go a step farther than the United States and France when they negotiated the recent pact of arbitration and outlawry of war.

Viscount Saito declared that world conditions had changed since the old treaties were signed, and the Japanese government was giving the treaties close examination from the standpoint of whether they were too far-reaching, or at least too indefinite.

U. S. Treaty Soon to Expire.

It is remarked that the arbitration treaty between Japan and the United States will expire soon and must be renewed, and the proposal that the United States would be disposed to go to meet any sweeping Japanese proposal calculated to make the new treaty a more effective instrument against war.

Russia's draft convention for disarmament was deposited today with the League of Nations by Boris Stein, Soviet observer at the security commission conference. This convention is similar to the proposals of Britain, France, and the United States, and is based on the principle of the elimination of all armaments by all the nations.

The Latin-American delegates came to the attention when Great Britain, through Lord Cusheven, proposed definite regional nonaggression accords between nations of the same world area, and tonight began debating how to ask for instructions in case a pact should be suggested for Latin America.

The opinion in Latin-American circles here is that a security regional pact in Latin America with one or more nations guaranteeing its operation, as Great Britain and Italy guarantee the Locarno pact, is impracticable. The absolute equality of all the signatories, it is said, would be a primary requisite, since Latin-American states would welcome neither the United States nor the "ABC" nations as guarantors.

German Against Proposal.

One idea informally heard expressed was that there could be one regional accord in Central America, another for South America. But Lord Cusheven, who is Lord Cecil's successor at Geneva, found little favor for his proposal of definite regional pacts from Dr. Ernst Simson, German industrial expert. He voiced the fear that such an account would create hostile groupings of states within the league; he advocated the development of conciliation and emphasized the idea, which is gaining ground in league circles, that more attention should be paid to measures to prevent war and less to the preparation of penalties.

Will Rogers Learns Farm Aid or Norris Confronts Coolidge

Special to The Washington Post.

Ottawa, Neb., Feb. 20.—Left Chicago last night, Feb. 20, at 10 o'clock, Will Rogers, who flew to Omaha, Neb., to get through weather that most people could not find their way from the house to the garage in. With a well-lighted course, good plan and good pilots, it's safer and more gratifying than running for a presidential nomination, which seems to be the other popular fad nowadays.

The farmers out here threaten to keep Norris as senator in Washington till they get relief.

If I was you, Mr. Coolidge, I would take care of the farmers at once.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

JURY FOR HICKMAN-HUNT MURDER TRIAL CHOSEN

6 Men and 6 Women Selected for Thoms Case After 3 Days.

Los Angeles, Feb. 20 (A.P.).—After 3½ days of legal maneuvering to pick twelve persons to hear the murder trial of William Edward Hickman and Welby Hunt, charged with shooting to death C. Ivy Thoms, a druggist, during a hold-up, a jury of six men and six women was selected and sworn in today.

Before the final make-up of the jury had been determined 101 talesmen were called to the jury box and summarily dismissed for various reasons.

Completion of the jury came after a spirited court battle, when the defense attorneys decided to use all of their peremptory challenges after their motion to challenge an entire panel was disallowed by the Court. Even after both sides declared themselves satisfied with the jury, Defense Attorney Richard C. Canfield went on record as still challenging them on the ground that they had served more than twenty days as jurors, which he claimed, was in violation of a recent amendment to the State constitution. His motion was refused by Judge Elliott Craig.

Hickman and Hunt, who were 17 years old today, sitting beside their attorneys, appeared glad that the ordeal of choosing a jury was over, and they relaxed somewhat when they understood that only an alternate juror remained to be selected before the taking of testimony was to begin.

Occupying her usual seat in court was Mrs. Thoms, widow of the slain man, whom the two youthful bandits are alleged to have shot to death on Christmas Eve, 1926.

Mrs. Louis Franconi and Mrs. Emma Rossiter were chosen as alternate jurors. Judge Craig addressed the jurors and advised them they would be in custody of the bailiff after tomorrow's session and until the end of the trial.

MYERS, AT HEARING, ASSAILS SENATORS IN BREAD INQUIRY

Denies Misconduct in Case, but Borah Says He Is Not Convinced.

INSOLENCE IS CHARGED BY WALSH, OF MONTANA

Committee Recalls Judge Soper With Others for Further Examination.

(Associated Press.)
For more than two hours yesterday Abram F. Myers, Federal Trade Commissioner, waged battle with a Senate Judiciary subcommittee single-handed in defense of his activities as an Assistant Attorney General in the bread merger case.

Not content with his heated and repeated denials of any misconduct on his own part, he counter-attacked with charges that the committee itself had been unfair to him. That, he said, was evidenced both in the majority report signed by Senators Borah, of Idaho, and Walsh, of Montana, and dealing with the bakery case, and in the more recent use by Senator Borah of the words "lying and forgery" in connection with Myers' previous testimony.

As Myers completed his statement the Idaho senator, chairman of the subcommittee, told him that "candidly, your statement is not convincing to me."

Myers retorts to Borah: "I can't convince a man against his will," Myers retorted. "It is not against his will, but against his reason," Borah said.

Sensor Borah was referring to Myers' statement to the committee that he had told Federal District Judge Soper, of Baltimore, at the time of the entry of the consent decree in the Ward Food Products Corporation case, that the Federal Trade Commission would dismiss a Clayton act case then pending against the Continental Baking Company of the Ward organizations.

Judge Soper testified last Friday that the commissioner had made no mention of such a dismissal, and he presented sworn statements from three attorneys for the baking interests that they did not hear the then Assistant Attorney General refer to action which the Federal Trade Commission was to take.

Recall Judge Soper.

The committee decided yesterday to recall Judge Soper Thursday and also to summon the three Baltimore lawyers—George Weems Williams, Charles McHenry and Jesse Bowen—as well as District Attorney Woodcock, of Baltimore, and those who made up his staff on April 2, 1928, at the time the consent decree was entered.

Myers not only assailed the subcommittee for its majority report but also for its methods of investigation. He was particularly emphatic in his strictures on Senator Walsh, telling him that there was "no fairness" in him when it came to conducting an inquiry.

Later he sought to have these remarks expunged from the record. "Does that include your insolence to me?" the Montana inquired.

"Well—yes," Myers replied. "Senator Walsh then said he did not object to any irrelevant material being stricken from the record, but he would insist on the inclusion of Myers' comments concerning his 'misconduct' of the investigation."

Besides assailing Borah and Walsh, the commissioner also sharply criticized the procedure in Judge Soper's court.

J. A. REED BEGINS HIS TOUR, ATTACKING G. O. P. IN TEXAS

He was not prepared to pass on that, but he believed in the principle of "protecting American lives and property."

Speaking at a meeting of the Democratic leaders of Texas, the Missouriian outlined the platform upon which he seeks the Democratic presidential nomination, although even in this prepared address he did not formally announce his candidacy. It was the first of a series of speeches which is to take him to the Pacific Coast.

"I appeal for a return of honesty in Government and for the restoration of the old Democratic doctrine," he said.

declaring that the judge "bustled into court to receive the decree and controlling the proceedings with an iron hand."

"I put my word against his," Myers said, referring to Judge Soper's statement that the Government attorney had not told him that the Federal Trade Commission was to dismiss the Clayton case. "I have a decided recollection that I told the judge. He was doing most of the talking and controlling the proceedings with an iron hand."

She Says Soper Hurried.

Miss Mary G. Connor, special Assistant to the Attorney General, who was associated with Myers in the bakery case, corroborated the commissioner's description of the court proceedings.

She described Judge Soper as "hurrying" to the bench and "growing there as though he were in great haste to have the case over."

"I was there the night before that the judge had said he would come down to the court for twenty minutes and no longer," she said. "He asked a few irrelevant questions and the case did not even last twenty minutes."

Alice M. Gleaser, secretary to the Trade Commissioner, took full blame before the committee for the entry into the committee record during the 1927 hearing of a carbon copy of a letter which Myers wrote Judge Soper, but retracted before it was sent.

"I remember having to rewrite the letter, but apparently failed to destroy the original," she said. "The discovery by the committee of the discrepancies between these two letters that prompted Chairman Borah's statement that 'there was no fairness' have been not only lying, but forgery."

"I speak for the inalienable right of the citizen to liberty of conscience without coercion, criticism or obloquy," Myers declared.

"The preservation of the right of freedom of the press, peaceable assembly, trial by jury and the reestablishment of local self-government and the sovereignty to the States."

"For the abolition of government by bosses and bureaucrats."

"For the equalization of the burdens of taxation, the repeal of all laws creating special privilege and the dismissal of a vast army of spies, snoopers, sneaks and informers."

"For the liberation of honest business from oppressive interference by governmental agencies."

"The prosecution and punishment of those who by criminal conspiracy in restraint of trade make war on honest business."

"For the swift and sure punishment of all public plunderers, bribe-givers, election corruptors and other malefactors."

These Are Issues, He Says.

"These are the great issues," Senator Reed declared. "Upon many other problems we may be in division, but here is a field on which the Democratic party may plant its banner; here is the ground where all Democrats may assemble and where Democratic victory may be achieved."

Calling for "a united and militant Democracy," Senator Reed declared at the outset of his address that "the most important question before the American people is the question of the Republican party from power; to take this Government out of the hands of hoodlums, grafters and lobbyists and to place its control once more in the hands of the American people."

Reviewing then the Republican administration since Woodrow Wilson left the White House, the Missouriian adverted to the naval arms treaty, the settlement of foreign debts, the 1926 Pennsylvania primary and the oil scandal, and assailed President Coolidge, Secretary Mellon, Albert B. Fall, former Interior Secretary, and Harry M. Daugherty, Attorney General, in both the Harding and Coolidge administrations.

President Is Criticized.

The President was attacked for keeping Daugherty in the Cabinet after the exposure by the Teapot Dome and Daugherty investigations, and for failure to "lift a hand" while the Senate committee was disclosing the leasing of the naval oil reserve under conditions of "fraud and bribery."

Senator Reed asserted that Mellon had been appointed to the Treasury portfolio by President Harding despite the inhibition of a Federal statute against naming to that position any man engaged in trade and the Mellon, in his administration of the Treasury, not only had favored the wealthy in the matter of tax reduction, but had approved debt settlements costing the American taxpayers billions of dollars.

Finally, he said, Mellon had joined with his brother and nephew to organize "the scheme to raise $2,000,000 to corruptly secure the renomination of Senator Pepper" in the Pennsylvania primary in 1926.

Refers to 1920 Campaign.

Charging that President Harding had been selected as the Republican presidential candidate in 1920 in a room "where a few wealthy men or representatives of wealthy men consorted with the conspirators of robbery and theft which has since disgraced the republic," Senator Reed said Fall, as Interior Secretary, had "accepted the bribes of the conspirators, did their bidding, and corruptly transferred to certain of them the vast oil reserves of the republic."

Describing Daugherty as "a creature covered with the leprosy of corruption," the Missouriian declared that this official "paralyzed the Department of Justice so that its arm was not stretched forth to apprehend Fall and his fellow conspirators."

Attacking the Republican administration also for enactment of the Fordney-McCumber tariff law and for what he said was a concentration of power in Washington, Senator Reed asked how stood the case at this time.

"Trusts multiply, and the President does not 'choose' to interfere," he said. "Monopoly grows fat, and the President does not 'choose' to act."

MAYOR WALKER DELAYS PARADE OF MARDI GRAS

Extra Locomotive Unable to Get Him to New Orleans Fete on Time.

SIRENS WELCOME HIM

New Orleans, Feb. 20 (A.P.)—New York contributed its part to the Mardi Gras of New Orleans tonight, when Mayor James J. Walker, late again, reviewed the carnival parade of the Krewe of Proteus.

The mayor's train was late, and the parade had to wait 20 minutes for the visitor. Two engines were placed on the train when it was found he was in danger of missing the parade.

Mardi Gras parades do not wait, as a rule, but it was explained that Mayor "Jimmy," as he has been nicknamed here, doesn't come often. From the train he was rushed by motors, led by motorcycle policemen with screaming sirens to the reviewing stand at the City Hall, where the New York mayor, slight of build, took his stand beside the mayor of New Orleans, Arthur J. O'Keefe, built on much more generous lines.

The mayor declared he never saw anything like the parade. He was prepared for a big reception when harbor craft sounded their whistles in response to a signal from the engine drawing his train.

Between lines of cheering thousands "Jimmy," dressed formally for the ball following the parade, drove, waving his hat. There were one or two scattering "Mr. Mayors," but they were drowned out in the shouts for "Jimmy."

"The Proteus parade was one picturing famous heroes and heroines of history and legend," the smiling Jimmy had a wise crack for many of the floats. He caught souvenir after souvenir thrown from the floats.

After the parade the mayor declared he had never been so excited. Someone asked if he had had a bigger reception. "No," he said, "and no one else but Lindbergh."

New Orleans and surrounding "States, cities, villages and hamlets," as Mayor Walker expressed it in his greeting heard him over the radio, when he spoke over WSMB.

Hughes' Work at Havana May Result in New Boom

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Feb. 20.—There is a strong probability that the friends of Charles E. Hughes, chairman of the United States commission at the sixth Pan-American Conference, just closing at Havana, will on his return to New York, ask him to reconsider his decision not to be a receptive candidate for the nomination for President at the Republican national convention in Kansas City in June.

There is no organized plan to bring the subject again to the mind of former Secretary Hughes, but his handling of the country's interests at the session has so added to the prestige of Mr. Hughes, in the judgment of his admirers, that they feel they will be justified in suggesting to him that it will be for the best interests of the party, and especially of his party association in this State, if he can see his way clear to permit them to hold him subject to the draft of the convention.

The friends of Mr. Hughes are saying that he never showed to more advantage than he did at the Havana conference, and the record, therefore, in the judgment of his friends, has immensely increased his prestige, furnishing proof that his intellect and strength are unimpaired, and that he would face the strain of a national campaign with as much reserve as any of the aspirants for the nomination.

Al Smith's Daughter Is Reported Delegate

Albany, N. Y., Feb. 20 (A.P.)—The Albany Knickerbocker Press will say tomorrow that Mrs. John A. Warner, daughter of Gov. Smith, is included in the tentative list of delegates to the Democratic national convention. Mrs. Warner, under present plans, would replace Mrs. Elizabeth V. Colbert, vice chairman of the Albany County Democratic committee, as alternate delegate for the Twenty-eighth District, the paper will say. Gov. Smith is understood to have given his approval to the naming of his daughter. The list of designations is to be submitted to the county committee next Monday for its final approval.

Commerce Secretary Reported Preparing Reply to Borah on Dry Questionnaire.

OHIOAN IS OPTIMISTIC

Contenters in the Ohio presidential primary contest, Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover and Senator Frank B. Willis, were both back in Washington yesterday, the former returning from a week's fishing trip to Florida and the latter from a week-end journey to his home State. Secretary Hoover put in a busy day before leaving for New York to keep non-political engagements.

It was reported that Mr. Hoover on his return of Washington the middle of the week will make public his reply to the prohibition questionnaire of Senator Borah. Mr. Hoover is understood to have given some attention to the preparation of his letter yesterday. It is known that it will be dry in its general tenor, but just how far he will go on the question is arousing considerable interest.

Sensor Willis was in an optimistic frame of mind.

"Personally I have no doubt of the outcome in Ohio," said Senator Willis. "An excellent organization with splendid candidates for delegates has been set up in every district. The delegation fight will be a good-natured contest, but the people of Ohio will want to know where the candidates for President stand on issues of national importance. The people will know, so far as I am concerned."

Neither Senator Willis nor Mr. Hoover decided definitely whether to authorize the filing of petitions in the preferential primary in Ohio. Both have authorized the entry of delegates pledged to them. The preferential primary vote is separate from the vote on delegates. If either enters the preferential primary the other is expected to do so.

Sore throat all about you!

These are days when sore throat, colds, "flu" and pneumonia are a constant threat. At the first sign of throat irritation gargle repeatedly with Listerine used full strength.

It may be—and very probably will be—the means of warding off a nasty cold, or worse.

The instant Listerine enters your mouth, it attacks the disease-producing bacteria that develop and multiply there.

For this reason, it has been the first aid of millions in checking cold weather complaints before they became serious.

In view of your constant exposure to disease germs, we urge you to use Listerine night and morning every day during cold weather. A simple precaution—but well worth taking. Lambert Pharmaceutical Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

ESCH UNDER TRIPLE FIRE AT COMMITTEE HEARING

Glass, Neely and Barkley Ask Commissioner's Views on Fixing Rail Rates.

SUPERPOWER IS CHARGED

(Associated Press.) John J. Esch, of Wisconsin, was again under the triple fire of senators from West Virginia, Kentucky and Virginia yesterday as a Senate committee failed to complete its hearings as to his qualifications for confirmation for another term as an Interstate Commerce Commissioner.

Again yesterday the barrage of questions poured upon him by Senators Neely, Barkley and Glass, all Democrats, dealt with his change of vote in the Lake Cargo Coal Rate case and his views as to power of the commission to consider relative commercial operating conditions in competing fields in fixing rail rates.

"Does the commission hold that it has the lawful authority to consider, in adjusting rates, varying commercial and industrial operating conditions in the different fields?" Senator Glass asked.

"It must consider them to the end that commodities may freely move," Esch answered.

"Then, if carried to an extreme, the commission might wipe out the industry," Senator Glass said. "If it may consider such varying conditions, the commission becomes the master of commercial success or failure in this country."

"We don't say that," Esch said. "We think this decision does it." Glass persisted, tapping the 1927 lake cargo coal decision of the commission. "You say it is not your business, yet to us you appear to do it."

"The primary consideration is the reasonableness of a rate," Esch said. "What is a reasonable rate?" Glass demanded.

"I don't think you've succeeded," remarked the Virginia senator, adding that he would move to repeal the Hoch-Smith resolution for a study of freight rates "if anybody thinks" it authorized the commission to go into commercial conditions in competitive fields in framing rates.

Day in Congress

SENATE. Met at noon and adjourned at 4:35 to meet at noon today.

Received from President Coolidge the nomination of Representative William R. Green (Republican), Iowa, to be judge of the Court of Claims of the United States.

Passed the alien property bill. It now goes to conference.

Made the Norris resolution for Government operation of Muscle Shoals its unfinished business.

Judiciary committee favorably reported the Caraway resolution to compel lobbyists to register with the secretary of the Senate and the clerk of the House.

Interstate commerce committee approved the Hawes bill to prohibit the shipment of convict-made goods into the thirteen States whose laws prohibit the sale of such goods. The committee, however, added an amendment providing that the bill not take effect until two years after its passage.

HOUSE. Met at noon and adjourned at 5 to meet at noon today.

Passed and sent to the Senate the Green bill extending for two years the time in which war veterans may apply for bonus certificates.

Passed and sent to the Senate the Butler bill to enable mothers and widows of soldiers, sailors and marines buried in Europe to visit their graves at the expense of the Government.

Passed and sent to the Senate the Kelly bill authorizing the Postmaster General to make contracts for the transportation of mail to foreign countries and insular possessions of the United States.

Passed and sent to the Senate a bill authorizing the college of 10,000 the Fitzgerald bill to increase the pensions of Civil War veterans' widows from $30 to $40 a month.

Edward E. Spafford, national commander of the American Legion, appeared before the naval committee to indorse the administration's naval construction program.

Committee on coinage favorably reported two bills authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to issue Lindbergh medals.

Representative Berger (Socialist), Wisconsin, introduced a bill repealing the wartime espionage act.

Majority Leader Tillson announced that the House would convene at 11 o'clock tomorrow, listen to the reading of Washington's "Farewell Address" and would then adjourn so that the members could go to the exercises at Alexandria.

ORGIES BY KU KLUX CHARGED IN INDIANA

Continued from page 1. eight-hour interview included the following: That W. Lee Smith when grand dragon told him the Klan wanted to put over any sort of a program "we had to do it with politics" and that "a lot of money is being spent that we don't dare to show."

That the general program was to get control of first the county, then the State and the country.

The Sunday school publications were used to carry Klan political articles.

That the Klan had a State membership in Indiana in 1923 of 178,000, but that the total now was less than 4,000 paid up.

GREEN OF IOWA GETS CLAIMS COURT PLACE

must originate. He would not comment on his appointment or give any reason for his desire to retire from Congress. He is 73 years old and in recent years he has not been in the best of health.

Also, reports from Iowa say a formidable opposition has developed to his selection to the House in the person of Milton Pitts, former speaker of the Iowa Legislature, and a spellbinder of the type that instigates himself into the hearts of rural folk.

On the Court of Claims, Mr. Green will have a life time job at a salary of $12,500 a year as compared to $10,000 which members of Congress receive.

Pitts has changed Mr. Green on the heated estate tax repeal issue, one of the matters in which the committee chairman has not been in accord with the Treasury. Life and Representative Garner, of Texas, ranking minority member of the committee, have stood shoulder to shoulder against its repeal, while Secretary Mellon has insistently sought it. While in the tax reduction program submitted to the House by the Treasury at the outset of the present session, the appearance of the being a minor recommendation, the Secretary of the Treasury has nevertheless been persistent in his stand that it should be repealed. Advocates of repeal, also, have had an organized lobby working ever since the tax bill of 1924. This lobby built fires back home, setting up tax clubs, so-called, in both Mr. Green and Mr. Garner's home States.

Firm for Tax on Estates. Neither has yielded an inch, however, in his attitude that the levy should be retained, and it stands retained in the tax bill, already passed by the House and now pending in the Senate finance committee. Incidentally, if Mr. Green's appointment as judge should receive prompt approval in the Senate, it may be that he would not be in the House to oppose the estate tax repeal.

Probably more important, from the Treasury viewpoint, than his opposition to the repeal of the levy, however, has been his disagreement with the Treasury's tax programs in general. He has inclined to look upon its estimates almost in the same light as the critical Mr. Garner, and he has frequently been in disagreement with the department as to just how the reduction should be applied.

Will Succeed Judge Hay. For example, it was rather hard for the Treasury to recognize the current tax bill when it came out of the way and means committee as its own. In the first place, it provided for a reduction of $7,000,000 more than the Treasury said was a safe limit. When it left the House, incidentally, it was $61,000,000 beyond the Treasury's limit. The reductions, however, were not applied as limited by the Treasury.

Besides the current bill, Mr. Green in his chairmanship participated in the framing of the 1924 tax measure and that of 1926.

On the Claims Court he succeeds James Hay, of Virginia, who recently resigned. The vacancy on the United States Court of Customs Appeals was first tendered to Mr. Greene, it was learned, but he did not want to leave Washington. The Court of Claims sits here.

BILL TO REGULATE LOBBYISTS URGED

Senate Committee Recommends Passage of Caraway Measure.

(Associated Press.) Compulsory registration of lobbyists was recommended to the Senate yesterday by its judiciary committee, which approved the Caraway bill making such provision. A proposal of the same kind but reaching to the House through amendment of the Senate rules and carrying no penalty clause was thrown into the hopper during the recent Senate debate on the Webb power resolution which was marked by charges of intensive lobby activities.

Under the Caraway bill lobbyists who failed to place their names and connection with the Senate secretary and the House clerk would, upon conviction, be fined not less than $100 or more than $1,000 and imprisoned in "a common jail" for not less than one month or more than twelve months.

Besides registering, lobbyists would be required to file monthly statements of expenses, showing to whom money was paid and the purpose of such payment and also the names of persons they may have entertained as lobbyists and the cost of such entertainment.

Gilbert Tells Court He Has Returned Fees

(Associated Press.) Abraham S. Gilbert, who was special master in eight tax rate cases in New York City, presented himself personally yesterday before the Supreme Court in response to its order to show cause why he should not be punished for failing to comply with its instructions regarding the return of a part of the fees he received.

Through counsel, Gilbert informed the court that he had complied with its order and returned the fees as directed, with interest. The court made no announcement, but took the matter under consideration and will later announce what punishment, if any, it will impose.

SUPREME COURT LIMITS DRY LAW AUTO SEIZURES

Innocent Owners Get Chance to Recover Cars Under New Decision.

AFFECTS FINANCE FIRMS

(Associated Press.) Owners of automobiles, whether they are individuals or financing companies, are to be given an opportunity under a decision of the Supreme Court to recover their cars when used without permission of the owners in the unlawful transportation of intoxicating liquor.

The decision was a blow to the Federal prohibition enforcement practice of attempting to confiscate such machines under a section of the internal revenue laws, which do not grant the owners an opportunity for recovery.

In a case from Seattle, Wash., the court held yesterday that when possession was a part of the illegal transportation, the Government could only seize the automobile under the prohibition enforcement act, which gives the owner a chance to recover the car upon showing that its illegal use had not been authorized.

The case was regarded not only of great importance to owners whose machines might be unlawfully used by friends in the transportation of liquor, but to the financing companies which retain title to approximately three-fourths of the $500,000 automobiles sold annually on deferred payments, involving financing operations estimated at $2,000,000,000.

SHIP BOARD COUNSEL SAVES U. S. $5,000,000

C. G. Parker, Victim of Salary Cut by Senate, Conducts Government Case.

Chauncey G. Parker, general counsel of the Shipping Board, whose salary was recently reduced by the Senate at the instance of Senator Black, of Alabama, because he did not "do anything but cook his feet upon the tubs" yesterday won a decision in the United States Supreme Court which was said to be worth $5,000,000 to the Shipping Board.

The case against the board was brought by three California wine firms to recover damages for the loss of cargo when the steamer West Alita went on a sand bar while en route to Hamburg. The plaintiffs contended that had the vessel first gone to Cardiff, Wales, with the wine cargo, the damage would not have resulted. The Supreme Court did not determine the question of "deviation" involved in the argument as to what was the original destination of the West Alita but it did uphold the Shipping Board in its contention that the suits had not been filed in the time limit of one year prescribed in the act in indemnity. Only $675,000 was involved in the particular case but the decision means a total saving to the Government, it was said, of approximately $5,000,000 on many other similar cases are pending. Mr. Parker appeared personally in the suit.

FLYING CROSS AWARDS ARE ANNOUNCED FOR 5

Macready, Kelly, Goebel, Maughan and Gray Honor by War Department.

FLIGHT OF ONE FATAL

Awards of the distinguished flying cross to five Army airmen were announced yesterday by the War Department. They will be presented to Capt. John A. Macready, Air Corps Reserve, and First Lieut. Oakley G. Kelly, Air Corps, first transcontinental fliers; First Lieut. Arthur C. Goebel, Air Corps Reserve, successful nonstop flier in the Dole derby from California to Hawaii, and First Lieut. Russell L. Maughan, Air Corps, "dawn and dusk" transcontinental flier. A posthumous award is made to Mrs. Marion Gray, Belleville, Ill., widow of Capt. Hawthorne C. Gray, famous balloonist and holder of the world's altitude record. This award is "for heroism while participating in aerial flights."

Capt. Macready and Lieut. Kelly left Mitchell Field, Long Island, at 12:36 o'clock on the afternoon of May 2, 1923, in the Army transport plane T-2 on a nonstop continental flight, and after encountering virtually every kind of flying hazard arrived at Rockwell Field, Calif., at 12:36 o'clock the next afternoon. Capt. Macready now lives at Dayton, Ohio, and Lieut. Kelly is on duty at Portland, Ore.

Lieut. Goebel on August 16-17, 1927, piloted a plane from Oakland, Calif., to Wheeler Field, Honolulu, a distance of 2,200 miles, in 26 hours and 17 minutes. He lives at Los Angeles.

Lieut. Maughan departed from Mitchell Field at 2:38 o'clock, Eastern standard time, on the morning of June 23, 1924, in a modified service type pursuit plane, and landed at Crissy Field, Calif., at 9:47, Pacific time, the same night, flying 2,540 miles in 21 hours 48 minutes, making the fastest time made by man between New York and San Francisco. He lives at Salt Lake City, Utah.

Capt. Gray twice broke the altitude record in a balloon last year, going higher "than any earth creature has ever gone," according to his citation. His flight on November 4 was fatal, death resulting from his supply of oxygen giving out at 37,000 feet.

THE RUBBER ISSUE.

England is pictured as bitterly complaining over the bill in Congress which would make possible the formation of alliances by American importers against foreign combinations to the detriment of the American consumer. The tendency toward common action by several of the states abroad in respect to commodities which the United States must import has been so definite, especially as to potash and rubber, that the American manufacturer and user have been quickened to the need for meeting the threat with measures for self-protection. The effect of the Newton bill would be to give the American rubber, potash and other raw material interests a power that the foreign combines could not well break.

Potash is a striking instance. When the present tariff was under consideration by Congress, an effort was made to challenge the German and French monopolies by having the duty on foreign potash placed at a level that would not discourage entrance of the needed supplies, while at the same time giving encouragement to develop a home market for the salts to be derived from potash lakes, mines and industrial wastage. The Geological Survey has located beyond peradventure potash in several of the States of the Southwest, in amounts that would well repay industrial operation, samples of which show a higher grade of the salts than those brought in from Europe.

There could be little incentive for the development of these resources, however, with the foreign interests forcing contracts upon the American importer to use 90 per cent, or ratios similarly high, of foreign salts.

Whatever may be the outlook for rubber production in the Philippines or the enterprise of Mr. Edison and others who seek to derive it commercially from certain plants, the story of rubber and of potash alike is that American enterprise refuses to be hampered by unfair combinations, and also refuses to be held up by those who at present command the major sources of supply.

PROPOSED NARCOTIC FARMS.

Representative Stephen G. Porter, of Pennsylvania, has introduced a bill calling for the establishment of two Federal narcotic farms for the care and treatment of persons now confined in Federal prisons who are addicted to the use of habit-forming drugs. The bill also provides that addicts who are not Federal prisoners may be admitted if facilities are available, and permits States to board at a Federal narcotic farm addicts who have violated their laws.

The bill is designed to serve a double purpose. Representative Porter points out that the Federal penitentiaries at Atlanta and Leavenworth are now greatly overcrowded. The Federal narcotic farms would remove more than 2,000 individuals from these crowded prisons, thereby relieving congestion considerably. Furthermore, he says, a prison is no place for a narcotic addict. As a general thing narcotic addiction is a disease and should be treated as such.

Formerly the narcotic addict was looked upon as an ordinary criminal. He was sent to jail, and released at the end of his sentence usually to return to crime, driven by his craving for drugs. Of recent years, however, the punishment of addicts has undergone a decided change. Primary attention now is paid to their rehabilitation so that they may be released to society restored in health and trained to be self-reliant and self-supporting. Great strides have been made in the treatment of drug addiction.

It has not been easy, however, properly to treat drug addiction in individuals confined to penal institutions. Such cases demand hospitalization, ample recreational facilities, and regular productive occupation. Their treatment could be administered far better in an institution designed exclusively for their confinement. Furthermore, the addict whose sentence today must be served in company with criminals is placed in surroundings and with companions that may destroy an already weakened moral sense. With the sympathetic treatment and surroundings of a narcotic farm his moral stamina would be strengthened. The Porter bill demands attention. Since it costs in the neighborhood of $3,000 to apprehend and convict an offender, from the economy standpoint alone the Government should place addicts in institutions that will make possible their return to society completely cured.

A WAR HEROINE.

Another heroine of the World War, Miss Mary Davies, is dead. In 1915, while polio and tommyes were dying of wounds, of gas and of gangrene, Miss Davies was working as a bacteriologist in the American Hospital at Neuilly. Tests were being made at that time in investigating causes of gas gangrene, the tests being applied to guinea pigs with inconclusive results. The crucial experiment of inoculating a human being with pure culture bacillus seemed remote when Miss Davies, without revealing her plans to any one, infected herself in the muscles of each thigh. The hospital surgeons thus obtained a pure case of gas gangrene, as a result of which they were able to develop a system of treatment with which thousands of lives were saved.

Those who offer their lives to scientific experiment are perhaps the greatest heroes of all, for they subject themselves to the possibility of lives of suffering sometimes worse than death in order that a cure may be discovered for the maladies of others. Miss Davies had courage supreme when she injected the germs of gas gangrene into her system. She had seen others suffer agony as a result of the same condition. Yet she had faith and risked her life for others. Her memory should live through the years.

REFORM OF THE LAW'S METHODS.

Nothing could better indicate the feeling of the people upon the subject of reform of judicial procedure than the returns from a questionnaire sent out to a selected group of hundreds of persons, together with a list of subjects which are attracting public attention. The majority of recipients of the questionnaire indicated the administration of justice as the most vital matter before the Nation. The second upon the list was of a similar nature—lawlessness and disrespect for law. Prohibition took the third place, with agriculture and farm relief following next in order of support. Making all due allowance for the fact that certain appalling conditions of lawlessness, such as the gang crimes in Chicago and several horrible murder cases, were in the minds of those who gave judicial reform as in their view the question of public interest above all others, the fact remains that normally this subject is uppermost in the thought of jurists and practicing attorneys of best repute, as well as the lay element of the population.

Justice lies at the seat of law and order, and the breakdown of the ideal by slack and uncertain administration is something that cries out for remedy through public opinion, more than by any other method of reform. Chief Justice Taft is a leader in creating public sentiment for this kind of reform. There is a field here for self-denying and competent leadership to point the way for the cure of a dangerous national disease.

ACROSS THE SAHARA.

French dreams of spanning the Sahara Desert with some recognized and stable means of communication are approaching a reality. For more than 70 years the French have talked of some land route by which Senegal, French Guinea, French Congo and other such possessions might be linked with Algeria and Tunis on the shores of the Mediterranean. It was only during the last decade that any actual crossing of the 2,000-mile stretch of waste land was made by mechanical means. Especially designed automobiles conquered the treacherous sands and renewed the hope of even better transportation.

The French Parliament is now to be asked for an appropriation of 12,000,000 francs for the purpose of studying and surveying the best route to be followed by a railroad. Literally, hundreds of accompanying problems will enter into the study. Lack of water is one great obstacle, but steam power need not of necessity be used. Motor or electric power may be found more feasible under conditions as they exist in the Sahara. The shifting sands themselves must be conquered, and insurance had that the nomadic Arabs will not use the railroad merely as another means of harassing the French.

No benefits to France, except that of spectacular accomplishment, may be expected from the Sahara itself, but French interests along the west coast of Africa are heavy. The natural pathway from the mother country to her colonies lies across the short stretch of the Mediterranean. Until some such route is established the closing of the door at Gibraltar would seriously hamper intercourse between France and her dependencies. That is the real motive behind the constant striving for some method of conquering the desert. Measured in ordinary terms the cost may appear to be prohibitive and the actual return slight, but the ultimate value of such an achievement to France could not be estimated in francs alone.

SIGNS FOR AVIATORS.

The American Legion has set out to identify every town and hamlet in the United States so that aviators, flying cross-country, will be able at all times to know their whereabouts. Through its more than 10,000 posts it expects to complete the task in 30 days. Each town will be designated in white letters from 12 to 20 feet high, painted upon a background of black. Where there is an airport in the vicinity its direction will be indicated with an arrow upon which will be superimposed a figure indicating its distance in miles from the sign.

No organization is better able to do the job. Community betterment is one of the major activities of the legion. Organized primarily to continue the bonds forged through common participation in the war, the legion is represented by a post in practically every town and township in the entire country, each one of which is interested in the welfare of the country in peace. By labeling every town and hamlet in the country, the legion will have performed a task that is bound to react favorably upon the early development of a comprehensive commercial air transport system.

THE LIVERPOOL GRAND NATIONAL.

The Liverpool Grand National steeplechase, to be run over the Aintree track on March 30, is this year attracting more attention in America than usual, because of the entry of some horses bred in this country, like Billy Barton and Burgoright, and of others bred abroad, but the property of American citizens, like Bright's Boy and Mount Etna, and, further, because some of these American candidates, on account of the good form they have displayed, are among the favorites in the ante-post betting, and really seem to have a fair chance of landing the valuable prize. Indeed, so great is the interest taken in the contest in this country that much of the accommodation of three Atlantic liners, leaving New York for England after the middle of March, has been already reserved by American lovers of steeplechasing, who are anxious to see for themselves the decision of the world-famous event.

It must always be remembered that the Grand National is in no sense a championship.

No one, for example, would or could claim that the winners of it in 1924, 1925 and 1926, namely, Master Robert, Double Chance, and Jack Horner, were champion steeplechasers, for they carried, respectively, only the comparatively light weights of 145 pounds, 149 pounds and 145 pounds to victory. While, however, it is not a championship, and is actually a handicap, the Grand National may, in reality, be described as a great adventure, because of its almost limitless possibilities. The cases of Old Joe, The Soarer, and The Wild Man from Borneo, to name no others, show that, with luck, any horse may prove victorious. The Grand National is proverbially a hard race to win, because of its great length, officially described as being "about 4 miles and 856 yards," and because of the formidable character of the Aintree jumps. This year there were no fewer than 112 entries, and forfeit was paid for only 16 of these, so that on January 24, the last day for the smaller forfeit declaration, 96 horses were still left in as possible competitors. It is a race "for 5-year-olds and upward," but there was not even one 5-year-old entered this year, and the acceptances show only six 6-year-olds left in. The other 90 are all technically "aged"—that is, they are 7-year-olds or more. It is interesting to note that no fewer than 28 of the horses which have accepted have been allotted the minimum weight of 140 pounds and two the topweight of 175 pounds, namely last year's winner, Sprig, and the one that was then third, Bright's Boy. Between these extremes the handicap takes a wide range, and no one can say in advance that this competitor or that has no chance of winning. It falls as plentiful as blackberries in early autumn, and any starter may eventually succeed in coming in first.

It is the element of uncertainty that makes the Liverpool Grand National so interesting yet so baffling a puzzle, and that, among sportsmen, renders the winning of it one of the greatest ambitions and most coveted objectives of the turf.

PENITENTIARY GENIUSES.

A new contender has come to the front for the honor of being the country's intellectual center. Atlanta Penitentiary, according to one of its recent inmates, is the most brilliantly intellectual colony in the world. "The aristocracy of intellect," the discoverer declares, "far exceeds the aristocracy of wealth. It would be easy, at any time, in Atlanta to recruit a formidable literary academy from the platoons of blue and white."

Atlanta may be what its advocate says and more, but it lacks somehow the atmosphere which is so necessary for a successful club. True, the clubman of tradition is one who never moves from his easy chair beside the window, but there is a certain difference between compulsory and unrestrained fixedness that makes the majority of men prefer the latter.

Not even the brilliance of which the writer speaks is likely ever to create a rush for membership in Atlanta's colony of best minds. It may be satisfying to know that if life's path should lead there conditions will be found to be ideal, but there are compensations elsewhere that make up for the lack of intellectual brilliance which the penitentiary possesses.

What is now being said in praise of Atlanta may, however, change the national viewpoint. The day may come when the newer intelligentsia will feel that existence can not be complete without the kinship of the kindred brainy souls who are for the moment behind the prison's gray walls. Greenwich Village may then be deserted while genius finds a home in the various cell blocks of the Nation's temple to literature and the arts. The word "may" is used advisedly, for the suspicion remains that Atlanta's penitentiary will need even further recommendations before becoming thoroughly popular.

UNSEATING ARCHIMEDES.

Fresh illustration of the fragility of fame which rests upon claims made in behalf of the individual of exclusive discovery is seen in the finding in Russia of an Egyptian papyrus of a period before the time of Moses, in which the problem of the circle and the sphere, the relations between the circumference to the diameter, are stated as they are understood by mathematicians today. Archimedes of Syracuse has been credited with marvelous inventive genius for his theories with respect to the measurement of the circle and the cylinder and his study of the curve. From this new light it would appear that Archimedes simply added some touches of his genius to known mathematical theories and honestly passed them down the centuries, accidentally acquiring a halo.

The unseating of Archimedes brings no reflection upon the early Greek scientist, without whose work the culture of all succeeding generations would have been gravely affected, but the discovery of the papyrus of the Golentis collection, translated by two noted Russian Egyptologists, indicates that the data of measurement and of form upon which the universe itself is constructed can not be matters of mere invention. Things that are implicit in nature are bound to become explicit in human understanding and use.

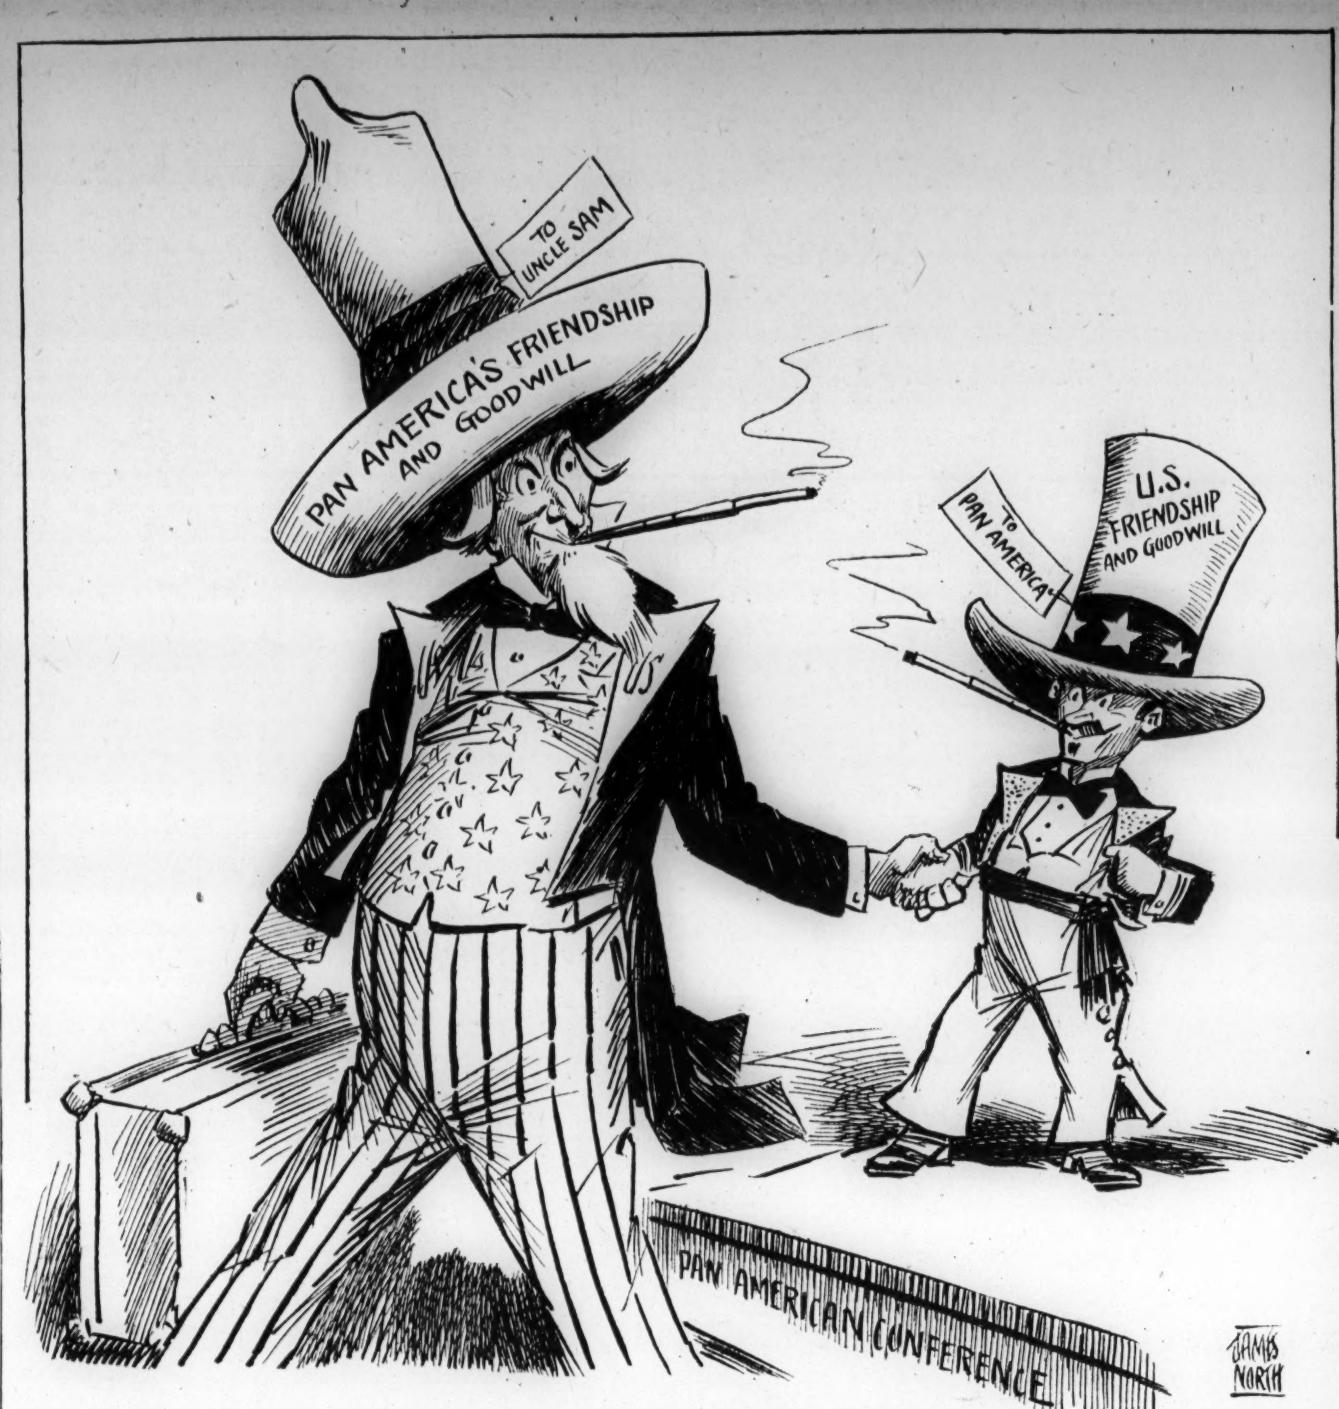

A matter of genuine interest in connection with the place of decipherment of the papyrus is that scholarship may increasingly look for fresh light from the land which so late in the Christian era was swarmed over by hordes from the East, who doubtless left many deposits of knowledge which have not yet filtered from Russian sources into the wider field.

North Carolina now stands fourth in the list of States in development of water power. Few States have progressed as much industrially as North Carolina in the past two decades. The water power figures of the State indicate clearly what is the matter with the textile industry in New England. As soon as neighbor States find that the development of agriculture and water power go hand in hand, the whole country will have reason to marvel at the progress and prosperity of that section which lies below the Mason and Dixon line.

PRESS COMMENT.

Chance for Genius.
Dallas News: There are untold possibilities ahead of the men who can find how to bring back the old-fashioned free lunch without the saloon.

The Round Crooked World.
Frankfort Times: People used to think the world was flat. Then it was found to be round. But it's still just a little crooked in spots.

The Women Handlers.
San Francisco Chronicle: The years bring us greater ability in some lines, but the only males who know how to handle women are not yet able to walk.

Come on In, the Water's Fine!
Indianapolis Star: There will be few dries at the Democratic national convention, as the new Houston Auditorium will be erected next to the city water plant.

Medley of Riot.
Ohio State Journal: Senator Willis himself assures us that his fight for favorite sonship will be no kid glove or powder puff affair, and personally we're looking for a saxophone affair.

Small Chance.
Indianapolis News: President Coolidge is standing by his naval building program, probably in the hope that its opponents will give an hour or two of study to it.

This Is Leap Year.
Des Moines Register: Nearly 1,000 humans were killed by automotive vehicles in Chicago last year. With the added day in February they may do better this year.

Why Conserve Them.
New Orleans Times-Picayune: "A bird refuge is proposed for the State of Kansas." To be sure they have a lot of rare birds out there, both journalistic and political, but should they be conserved?

The Head of The House.
Trenton State Gazette: On Diomed Island in the Bering Sea, the woman is recognized as the head of the house. We ask, in wonderment, if it is necessary to go to Diomed Island in the Bering Sea to make such a discovery.

Telephone Tapping.
Cincinnati Enquirer: Tapping a telephone wire is a species of burglary, yet the Federal Prohibition Department is arguing that it is a legitimate way to find out what may be in a private residence.

Something Wrong.
Troy Times: Prof. Robert Condit, of Miami Beach, has invented a machine in which he declares he expects to journey to the planet Venus. There's a trick in this. All former inventors of similar contrivances planned to visit the planet Mars.

The World's Mad.
Louisville Courier-Journal: The widow who ate dinner alone with the children all summer has the sincere sympathy of the radio widow who retires in solitude while a man with wretched hair and a wild look in his eyes wrestles with dials, tubes and doorknobs till 2 a. m.

The New Era.
Baltimore Sun: That suggested highway to the South which would pass around Baltimore and Washington is but one of seven of the same sort which the Regional Planning Federation approves for Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware. The proposal in each case is to permit speed by keeping the main road away from crowded cities.

Wars

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHEN I talk with doctors, lawyers, merchants, farmers and carpenters, I discover that I am an average citizen. In all ways that matter, I find these men much like one another and much like me. We think the same thoughts and have the same standards. One important matter on which we agree is the business of making war. The only things worth fighting for are liberty and justice. America has fought for both, and may do so again without loss of decency. To fight for your own liberty is manly; to fight for another man's liberty is gallant. Americans are willing to do either when the necessity arises.

But most of the wars the world has seen have been commercial wars. Nations have invented noble pretenses to justify themselves to themselves, but greed inspired them and avarice was their motive.

The ordinary American is a lover of peace. His hope and ambition is to labor in peace and in peace to enjoy the fruits of his labor. He will not willingly quit his labors to make war in the interest of another man's purse.

Professional warriors, and private citizens who value money more than they value human life, assure their fellow citizens that another commercial war is inevitable.

Why is it inevitable, and who will make it inevitable, and who will do the fighting if it comes, and who will get the profit?

If it is inevitable, it is because men who have power to avert it are determined to continue a course that will make it inevitable.

If it is inevitable, it will be brought about by professional warriors and by men who hope to profit by it.

When the inevitable happens, the fighting will be done by common Americans who do not wish to fight and have no hope of profit.

And the profit will be made by the men whose greed and heartlessness made the war inevitable.

That is the history of war-making. Let the bands play and the orators rant all they will; the ghastly fact remains that men who do not wish to fight are slaughtered to make a profit for other men who remain safely at home.

The doctors, lawyers, merchants, farmers, carpenters and newspaper men, who are common Americans and very much alike resent a system that makes commercial warfare possible. They resent any action, official or private, that tends to make war probable.

And they know that war is not inevitable except as those in power disregard the wishes and welfare of common Americans and deliberately do the things that make war inevitable.

Every small bank owns a few residences formerly possessed by prominent citizens who knew just how to outguess Wall Street.

How little work by firemen is required to save a hideous old building everybody would like to see burned.

How our hearts would ache with pity if we saw a poor man on the street with only 13 ounces of clothing.

aid to let urban traffic reach it. y argument for abolishing them. Is there anything except a prevailing fashion, a supposed popularity, to commend them now? Again it would be interesting to hear the opinions of men who go to sea in fighting ships. If it is chiefly for the sake of keeping in fashion that the United States is asked to build 32 more submarines, this country ought to be big enough and independent enough to set a new fashion for other nations to follow.

Unconvincing Alimony.
Buffalo Courier Express: "Woman, Demanding Alimony, Says Husband Is a Bootlegger," reads a headline. We infer that the Court was not convinced that the husband was a bootlegger, for the allowance granted was only $12.50 a week.

A Good Bill.
Auburn Advertiser-Journal: It is a wise legislator who can frame a bill that will have the endorsement of 75 per cent of the populace, but Representative Watson, of Pennsylvania, has that the husband was a bootlegger, for the allowance granted was only $12.50 a week.

One Viewpoint.
Buffalo News: It takes some resolution to disregard a prevailing fashion, whether in dress, in thought or in warships. Submarines, for some inexplicable reason, became the fashion after the World War, when the lessons of practical experience reinforced the

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Search Without Warrant.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Gundlach murder case brings forth a new interpretation of the fourth amendment. The judge is reported to have charged the jury that the agents were within their rights in going on the Gundlach property without a warrant. He said the fourth amendment protects against unreasonable search, but this does not include prohibition agents searching property for a still.

The language of the fourth amendment is clear; its intent and spirit is even clearer. It says: "The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects against unreasonable searches and seizures shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue but upon probable cause."

The power of your great paper is invoked in securing to the people their constitutional rights and guarantees. Any and all of these fanatics who are engaged in promoting prohibition are ready to trample under foot. For human life itself they have no regard. A woman delegate to a recent prohibition conference in Washington was reported to have said, relative to slayings by prohibition agents, that they were perfectly justified, as the men shot had made threats against the agents. Here is a new defense for or justification of murder, which was overlooked by the inventors of dementia praecox.

JOHN REEVES.

Fruitless Coal Inquiry.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: So the Senate is to investigate conditions in the coal regions. Well, what is the Senate going to do about it after the investigation is concluded? The men are idle; they are idle because they declined to work for wages offered by operators. The Senate can not force them to work. Neither can it force the operators to pay the wage demanded. Nor can the Senate force the operators to mine the coal. It is their coal; they own the surface and that carries with it everything beneath the surface; it is their property and they can use or not use it as they prefer.

It may be said coal is a necessity. That is true, but wheat is a necessity, yet the Senate can not compel the farmer to raise wheat when he prefers to cultivate potatoes. If the Senate is unable to do anything about it, why waste the time and the money investigating? If the Senate will confine itself to its legitimate business under the Constitution, it will have its hands full without making any outside excursions into territory that does not come under its limited domain.

THE QUEST FOR GOLD.

Though there is now about $9,000,000,000 worth of gold in the possession of man, it is generally accepted as a fact that the gold that has been taken out of the earth is not worth what has been spent in its pursuit, writes William A. Du Puy, in Current History. Many men have spent lifetimes in the hunt for gold and have never found it. Innumerable shafts have been run into lonesome mountainsides that have never encountered pay dirt. He who wanders among the solitudes of the Rockies, for example, is quite likely to encounter the scars on the hillsides left by prospectors who have worked claims that never produced. The occasional claim has proved to be a bonanza. The occasional strip of sand has yielded its yellow dust most profitably for a time. On the whole, however, more has been spent in the quest for gold than was ever realized from it.

ZIEGFELD PROMISES NEW SUCCESS WITH THREE MUSKETEERS

Musical Show Impresario Expects to Add to Trio of Broadway Hits.

RECORD SALE OF SEATS FOR OPENING TONIGHT

National to Be Crowded to Greet Tryout of Adaptation of Romance.

As some one happily phrases it, "This is a Ziegfeld year." The Old Master, with "Show Boat," which opened here in Washington, "Rio Rita," that got its start in Baltimore, and "Rosalee," all going like wildfire on Broadway, comes to town with another stupendous production, "The Three Musketeers." It opens tonight in the House of Rapley, the National Theater, but even before it gets under way there is a record-breaking box-office sale, with the prospects of standing room only at all future performances.

With 180 principals, chorines, singers, stage hands and what have you, the celebrated maestro of musical comedy swooped down on Washington late Saturday night to begin rehearsals for what he believes will be the greatest production of his career, and "Rosalee," with the goods, but it must all be assembled and made ready for display. What a gigantic task that is no one but a Ziegfeld will ever know. "As a matter of fact," he said yesterday, when rehearsals were called off after a twenty-hour drill, "this sort of thing ought to be a masterpiece. It is a matter of a month. However, show business being what it is, there is no time to lose—and the best time in the world to do a thing is now."

Dennis King in New Role.

Ziegfeld, who boasts he has no nerves, stood conspicuously in an aisle of the theater and watched his be-draggled charges go through their paces. Everything, of course, was topsy-turvy; but out of that mass of material, enough to make three good size musical comedies, the master stage strategist hopes to weave enough worthwhile stuff to make a masterpiece. He is banking on "The Three Musketeers" to overtop the three splendid productions now running under his banner in the Broadway Sweepstakes.

Dennis King, who really got his start as a dramatic star in the old Garrick Theater here—upon F street, where F. Stoddard Taylor, manager of the Belasco, once held forth—is set for a higher niche in the theater. He has the shining part in "The Three Musketeers." It was this same Dennis King who made such a name for himself in "The Vagabond King."

"Of course," as Ziegfeld points out, "the making of a great production out of 'The Three Musketeers' remains a task for any one, and yet there is material enough in the book to carry on."

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

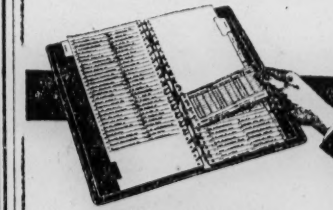

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative mixed with olive oil. No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation—try Olive Tablets. Quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night to keep right. Try them. 15c, 30c, 60c.—Adv.

Katherine Cornell Stars In High-Class Melodrama

Somerset Maugham's Play of the Orient, "The Letter," On View in the Belasco Theater, Has To Do With Murder on Malay Peninsula.

Measure Kendall presents Katherine Cornell in "The Letter," a play in three acts by W. Somerset Maugham. Staged by Guthrie McClintic.

 (During this act the curtain will be lowered for one minute to indicate the passing of three hours.)

ACT II.
 A room in the hotel at Singapore.
 Scene 1—A room in the Chinese quarter at Singapore.
 Scene 2—The drawing room of the Croble-Bellows.

Certainly, Mr. Somerset Maugham might have selected a more pleasant theme upon which to fashion his drama, "The Letter," which brings Katherine Cornell to the Belasco—her first appearance here since she won "The Green Hat"—but whatever its moral attributes the play moves. And that, in the courts of compensation, is something.

Here, for all the world, is the reverse English on Maurice Watkins' open-discussed play, "Chicago." The opening scene is almost identical. In each, a lover is shot to death. Bang! bang! bang! And the plays move on—"The Letter" to a mainland great conclusion: "Chicago" to the accompaniment of jazz justice.

Whatever anyone may have against such sordid happenings, however, there is no denying that the high crime cry-

many times again. William Anthony Maguire, the playwright, who worked out the book for this production, has woven therefrom a story somewhat similar—but different, of course—from the screen version used by Douglas Fairbanks, and has done what he believes a masterful piece of work. The lyrics are by P. G. Wodehouse and Clifford Gray. All the dances and ensembles have been supervised by Albertina Rasch.

Music by Rudolph Friml.
 "On the music side, the logical successor to Victor Herbert has turned in a score that really approaches operatic heights. Rudolph Friml is a genius as those who have followed his work know. His 'Song of the Vagabonds' in 'The Vagabond King' will live. There is no doubt about that. Well, wait until you hear some of the music to be let loose. That's all that can be said. Unless the world opens down upon our ears—and that's always possible—we have here a remarkable production in this making."

While Flo Ziegfeld all wrapped up in his new production, talked of its possibilities, the phone rang. New York wanted him. He came away from the wire, a smile spreading from ear to ear. "Show Boat," it seems, had broken a record from the ticket-sales standpoint.

"My manager just tells me," he said, "that last week 'Show Boat' played to $58,000 at the box office. That is the record for all time in the theatrical business. Better than that, we have sold out four weeks ahead. There is not a ticket to be secured—not even by the speculators. So it means that the $58,000 a week is good for at least a month."

Two "Show Boat" Companies.
 So well is "Show Boat" going that Ziegfeld has arranged to have two companies play it at once on Broadway. This is a new departure, since Ziegfeld all through his theatrical career has opposed what he calls second companies.

"But this," he hastened to add, "is not going to be a second company. It is going to be a duplicate of the first and run concurrently, to vie with the original production, for I am going to see that as a whole it is as good as the first in every detail. It might even be better. At any rate, we shall let the two companies race for honors on Broadway. Then, when the race is over, I shall choose one of the companies to go out on the road."

Joseph Urban, who has designed sets for Ziegfeld since Ziegfeld starting doing productions in the grand manner, was set to the task of producing the scenery for "The Three Musketeers." There is one piece that appeals especially to Ziegfeld. It is a tapestry into this Ziegfeld believes that all the art of Joseph Urban has been centered. It will form a conspicuous part of the background in "The Three Musketeers" when that monumental work gets underway tonight in the National.

RIALTO

Art and Value, twins of inestimable worth to the theater, are often invoked by managers, meet in happy conjunction at the Rialto Theater this week, where is to be seen smoldering Pola Negri on the screen in "The Secret Hour" and the "Irma Powell Revue" on the stage.

In "The Secret Hour," which one will recognize from a visit to the theater if not from advance notices, as the screen version of "They Knew What They Wanted," Pulitzer prize play of two or three years ago, Miss Negri, who has the role of Annie, the waitress, has opposite her, in one of his finest cinema characterizations, Joan Herscholt, as Louie, a playboy who to their art and as a result they have given to the public a film of exceedingly fine acting. If anything, to this reviewer, Herscholt, too unemotional, too characterless is the work of Miss Negri. But, at that, her character is well in hand, even and sustainedly portrayed.

Too, it is to be noted, the sordid mess of the original stage production occasioned by the romantic slip of Annie is smoothed out in the film version of the play, which ends happily for all concerned.

Five or six artists are to be seen in Miss Powell's revue, all effectively and most favorably. Synopsized song and dance form the basis of its character songs that are put over with good voices and tap dancing to music numbers of martial complexion that is perfectly synchronized and delivered with personality. There is a "mean" trap drummer of dark hue, a trombone player that can put an airplane to shame in imitating itself and a "bubbles" cornet soloist, who knows her "bubbles" perfectly.

The International Newsreel for the week is largely confined to sporting events, and from the new contraption invented by one Snyder, who expects it to carry him to other planets than our own for a visit, etc. An animal cartoon, "The Ole Swimming Hole," and Conductor Rex Rommel offering as his overture "Southern Rhapsodies," rounds out the bill, one heartily recommended as truly worth while.

What one taste showed Mrs. Cadle about

Pie Crust

A SWEET delicate shortening can make the crust of a pie as delectable as the filling! To make sure that your shortening is sweet and delicate, test it the same way you test your milk and butter—taste it!

Mrs. Katherine M. Cadle did just that; then wrote us:

"The taste of Crisco is sweet, agreeable—without the slightest trace of any 'strong flavor' which one occasionally finds even in the best of other shortenings."

"For pies, Crisco has proven excellent; it makes a flaky crust that browns beautifully and has a fine flavor."

Standard Pie Crust

Amount for one-crust pie (Or baked shell)	For medium size two-crust pie
1 1/4 cups pastry flour	2 cups pastry flour
1/2 cup Crisco	1 cup Crisco
1/2 cup sugar	3/4 cup sugar
4 to 6 tablespoons cold water	6 to 8 tablespoons cold water

Sift pastry flour and salt together. Cut shortening in with two knives until the consistency of small peas. Add only enough ice water to hold. Roll. For baked shell, cover bottom of pie plate. Leave enough edge to fold back to make it firm. Prick well with a fork to prevent bubbles. Bake in hot oven (450° F.) for 15 minutes.

Sour Cream Pie

Filling	Filling
1 cup sour cream	1 tablespoon flour
1/2 cup sugar	1/4 teaspoon each cloves, cinnamon, allspice, nutmeg
1/2 cup Crisco	1/2 cup raisins
1/2 teaspoon salt
3 eggs separated

Mix flour and sugar. Add cream and Crisco. Bring to a boil. Add beaten egg yolks, spices, salt and raisins. Boil five minutes, stirring constantly. Cool, pour in baked shell. Cover with meringue. Beat egg whites stiff, add 3 tablespoons sugar and pinch of baking powder. Cover pie. Brown in moderate oven (350° F.).

Cheese Pie

Filling	Filling
1/2 cup Crisco	Juice and grated rind of 1 cup sugar
1 cup sugar	1 cup sugar
2 egg yolks beaten	3/4 cup chopped walnuts
1 egg white	1 egg white
1/2 teaspoon salt	1/2 teaspoon salt

Cream Crisco, sugar and egg yolks. Add raisins and nuts. Fold in the white of one egg beaten until stiff. Line party pans with crust, put in the filling and bake in hot oven (450° F.) 10 minutes, then reduce heat to 325° F. and bake until filling is set about 30 minutes. When done, top with meringue made of two egg whites beaten stiff and four tablespoons of powdered sugar. Return to oven to brown.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL.

Hollywood's bay window is probably the most closely watched window in the world.

In an old brick building some distance from the heart of the studio area but close to the downtown parks and missions and cheap lodging houses where aging and unemployed men congregate, it is a window of hope to the jobless. For behind it men fill blank sheets with names: names of the ten black beards who will report to Universal tomorrow morning at 7, names of the fourteen six-shooters wanted at Paramount at 10:30; names of the five "old beards" and fifteen assorted mustaches who must be on the M-G-M lot at 8:30 sharp.

Chances are that not more than 50 men of all types will be called out of the crowd that hovers in the shouting or signaling distance of the window, but if 500 are needed, it is a hurry they are always there, either in plain sight or mysteriously hidden in the shadows, whence they suddenly emerge, the slightest encouragement from the men behind the window.

For they never take an eye off the window, where the jobs to be had are pleasant than pick-and-shovel toll—from $5 to $10 a day for mixing with other hired "atmosphere" in a movie scene—and consequently well worth waiting for, particularly if one is old and a little tired.

They do not always seem aware of the window. But let C. B. Collins, who represents the studios' central casting bureau in this downtown outpost, stand behind the uncurtained pane of glass and put his hand to his chin, and every bearded man looting on the stone steps across the street will jump to his feet. For the chin gesture means "Beards ahoy!" Or let him point his finger at a tall fellow strolling back and forth with apparent indifference. The man so pointed at will stop as though hit with a bullet.

Most hiring of extras nowadays is done without a look at the applicants, the studios ordering talent by telephone and, if necessary, by reference to filed photographs. But downtown many an "old beard," too old to find other work plentiful, still finds his way into the movie extra ranks by hovering near Hollywood's bay window—probably the most closely watched window in the world.

A long time ago we received a note from Betty Grace Tucker, one of Washington's most entitled aspirants for the spotlight—with apologies to Mr. Daly—a Washington artist who has appeared on the stage in the Ziegfeld "Follies," the Earle Carroll "Vauvities," George White's "Scandals" and others of our more conspicuous revues, not to mention such distinguished shadowdramas as "Twelve Miles Out," with John Gilbert—and that is pretty far out with him—"Just Another Blonde," with Dorothy Mackall; "Upstage," with Norma Shearer, and numerous others.

It seems that Miss Tucker pursued her career on the screen and the stage under the name of Evelyn Lunt and that now she is giving it all up, owing to a faulty heart which will not behave properly under the stress of such exertions as are entailed by work behind the footlights or before the Kleigs.

"I'll tell you how it is, Betty," "We can't have everything"—and that is no joke!

Howard Hughes, millionaire oil man, who took up the megaphone for air scenes of "Hell's Angels" when Luther Reed, directing the picture, concluded the interior work and returned to Paramount, is confined to St. Vincent's Hospital in Los Angeles.

No information as to the reason for Hughes' confinement is available. Fred Fleck, assistant to Reed, is finishing the interior sequences.

Hughes, it is said, suffered internal injuries recently when he crashed to the ground with his plane while directing.

Reputed worth around $35,000,000, Hughes is head of Caddo Productions, which will release this picture through United Artists.

Hughes has acquired the habit of taking over unexpired terms of contract players from other companies. His first was that of Thomas Meighan, and his latest is Ben Lyon.

Mr. S. J. Stebbins, managing director of the Fox Theater, more commonly known as "Jack," to those who know him well enough to call him "Jack," is pulling another fast one on the boys this week.

The loud speaker through which Larry Downey announces the current and coming shows seems not to be enough in the way of mechanical flub-dub to suit the amplified tastes of the Fox's impresario. He has even gone so far as to put a loud speaker on the floor of the stage to multiply the racket made by the feet of such gifted hoofers as Kendall Caps, who is announced as a member of the "She's My Baby" company, starring Beatrice Lily, although none of us who attended the first night of that musical fo-de-rol at the National can recall him as among those present.

Anyhow, the "speaker" picks up the thin-soled pumps and projects them into the house like nobody's business! And how that kid can pick them up and lay them down!

SOCIETY EVENTS

University Hospital ball, tonight at the Mayflower. Mr. Gilbert Grosvenor, and Mr. Walter Tuckerman, chairman and vice chairman, respectively, of the floor committee, will also receive.

The ball will start at 9:30 o'clock. A pageant, "The Garden Party on the Potomac," will be given at 10:30 o'clock, with Mrs. Tuckerman as director.

A number of dinner parties will be given prior to the ball, dinner hostesses including Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor, Mrs. Walter Tuckerman, Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone, Mrs. Richard Fouchy.

But the point is that you would never know it from the sound unless the amplifier was doing its stuff. And we know that it was because in one number it wasn't!

And oh, what a difference! When Hal Roach studios close down for five weeks, March 24, four members of the "Our Gang" troupe will be off the payroll. These juvenile prodigies have served their apprenticeship and outgrown their usefulness to the "Gang."

Roach has made arrangements to have this quartet do a vaude skit over the Orpheum and Keith-Albee circuits. The youngsters to go are Jackie Condon, Mildred Covenner, Bobby Morton and Jay R. Smith. Those to continue on the payroll for next season's output are Joe Cobb, Fatsina, Jean Darling, Harry Sperl and Winczlin. Four new members will be added.

In "Realization," the Vitaphone skit at the Metropolitan this week, in conjunction with first Washington showings of "The Missing Link," starring Syd Chaplin, local film fans have an opportunity to appraise the general effect of "talking pictures." This opportunity was afforded also when the Met presented "When the Wife's Away" through the same medium. Here we have at least an approximation of what will happen when the audible racket attempts to make certain passages of the silent drama an appeal to the ear as well as to the eye.

There is every prospect of success, but even so, it seems to us that the net result will be to pit the screen in active competition with the articulate stage, which to our mind would be fatal. Shadow drama as such occupies its own particular field in the amusement world—made articulate itself it will be compelled to run second to flesh and blood which always will be in the ascendant over flickers on a white canvas.

Or maybe I'm wrong again.

Mrs. Charles H. Tompkins, Mrs. James A. Lyon and Mrs. Carl Droop. Guests in the boxes will include the Ambassador of Mexico and Mme. de Teitez, Justice and Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone, the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Wilbur, Representative and Mrs. W. H. Evans, of California; Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, the Secretary of the Smithsonian Institution and Mrs. Abbott, Dr. John B. Merriam, director of the Carnegie Institution, and Mrs. Merriam; Capt. John H. Cowles, commander of the Scottish Rite; the Commissioner of the District of Columbia and Mrs. Proctor L. Dougherty, Dean William F. Russell, of the School of Education of Columbia University, and Mrs. Russell; Col. and Mrs. Harrison Dodge, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton, Mr. Paul Wiltach, Miss Margaret Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Paxton Blair, of New York; Miss Julia Mattis and Dr. Frank W. Ballou and Mrs. Ballou.

Recent additions to the list of boxholders for the ball include Mrs. Delos Bledgett, Mrs. Charles Graves Matthews and Mrs. Caleb T. Lokerson.

Mrs. Williams' Party. Mrs. Mabel Linton Williams entertained for the Continental Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution, at her residence in Massachusetts Park last evening. A musical program preceded the supper. Mrs. Williams played the piano and also accompanied her husband, Mr. Floyd C. Williams, in a number of songs.

The annual banquet was given by the Ohio Girls' Club Saturday in the Levee House. The speakers' table was decorated in red, white and blue, and this color scheme was carried out in the floral decorations and place cards. The committee on arrangements included Miss Grace Young, chairman; Mrs. Claudia McClaren, Miss Josephine Daily and Miss Gladys Prince.

There were 110 Ohio women present besides several guests from other States and the District. Miss Josephine Daily, president of the club, welcomed the members and their friends and presented Mrs. Amelia E. Daly, past president, with an honorary membership to the club, because of her long service as president. Miss Daily then introduced the toastmaster, Miss Gladys Prince. The following had part in the program: Miss Arista Huber, Mrs. Helen Jolliff, Miss Irene Kellirk, Miss Josephine Daily, Miss Martha Beach, Mrs. Claudia McClaren, Miss Martha Montgomery, Miss Edna Miller, Miss Fanny M. Sweeney, Miss Clara L. Bailey, and Miss Charlotte Lockett.

Judge Kathryn Sellers, Judge of the Juvenile Court, gave a talk, as did Mrs. Frank B. Willis, sponsor of the club, Mrs. Wilson Compton, Mrs. Claudia McClaren, Miss Edna Miller, Miss Helen Jolliff and Miss Fanny Sweeney.

Mrs. Brooks Fletcher, wife of Representative Fletcher, of Ohio, sang, assisted by Miss Margaret Morgan at the piano.

The Delta Sigma Nu Fraternity will entertain tonight at the Grace Dodge Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Weller, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Willard for their daughter, Miss Margaret Weller when their guests were girls from the National Park Seminary. Their guests were Miss Elizabeth Mitchell, Miss Billy Diamond, Miss Annie Gans and Miss Helen Forsyth.

Hollywood Stars

Films That Lost Money in U. S., Getting It Back Abroad, Zannuck Reports.

Special to The Washington Post.

Hollywood, Calif., Feb. 20.—Darryl Zannuck, executive to Warner Bros., has returned to Hollywood from England with the information that British moviegoers take their situations somewhat topsy-turvy. For instance, some of the pictures that were "big hits" in this country fail to "go over" at all. Other films which lost money here are getting lots of it back abroad.

What impressed Zannuck particularly was the things that the British film fan thought was funny. Gag situations which were relied on here as sure fire left the English audiences with long faces, but things which "went sour" here made the British welkin ring.

Bebe Daniels, who hasn't been able to rise up since her automobile injuries ten days ago, rose up, figuratively, in wrath at Hollywood Hospital today and delivered the following statement regarding the report published here that she is to marry Jack Pickford. Said Bebe: "Reports of my engagement to Jack Pickford are entirely untrue and unfounded. I am not nor have I ever been engaged to him, although he is a very good friend."

Following Mary Astor's marriage to Kenneth Neil Hawks here on Thursday, the couple will leave for a honeymoon to New York and Cuba. The film star procured a marriage license Saturday under her true name of Lucille V. Langhanke and gave her age as 21. Hawks is 29 and a production supervisor at Fox's.

Leonardo de Vesa, seven years in Argentine films, has come to Hollywood and is playing his first American part as the count in Adolphe Menjou's current picture, not yet titled.

Johnny Walker and Maude Wayne are to be wed in the near future, as soon, Johnny says, as he gets a space between pictures. Miss Wayne played in, Valentino and Swanson pictures prior to leaving the screen two years ago. After their marriage the couple will go to Europe. Walker expects to appear in vaudeville in England and make two films abroad.

Bebe Love is quitting the films for the speaking stage. She makes her debut March 5 as Bonny in the San Francisco opening of "Burlesque," with Jere Delaney as Skip.

A THREE DAYS COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

STOCKS RALLY BRISKLY
NEAR MARKET'S CLOSENervousness Marks Early
Heavy Trading—Steel at Year's New Low.

SELLING WAVE SUBSIDES

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Feb. 20.—Stock trading on the New York Stock Exchange today reflected the nervousness prevailing in speculative quarters. Although the market at no stage approached the stage of reaction which marked Saturday's hectic session, the pace of dealings carried the turnover over to the 3,000,000 share mark again, transactions topping 2,875,000 shares.

Following a series of alternating movements, the market generally at the outset, and with many of the more volatile issues depressed some 4 to 7 points to new low levels for the current reaction, the combination of the list developed pronounced rallying tendencies in the last hour of business and final quotations in numerous issues were heavy back to last week's closing levels.

By the rather marked absence of fresh liquidation in volume at the start, Wall Street was not surprised. Indeed there was something of a buying flurry just after the opening, but when this demand was quickly filled, selling pressure again developed toward various of those issues which moved off more rapidly in the several sessions immediately preceding.

The force of the reaction of speculative offerings and further liquidation, at its peak at midday, spent itself midway through the afternoon and the subsequent rally was fairly general.

On the renewed recession United States Steel common, which early had picked up more than a point to a new low level for the year at 138 1/2, but it recovered half its net loss before the end of trading and finished at 140 1/2, about Saturday's final price. General Motors stood up rather better, moving within a narrow range, and although it closed more than a point under its best quotation of the day, was not unchanged at the end.

Largest declines again were to be found in stocks like International Nickel, International Business Machine, Montgomery Ward, Byers Pipe, Cold Dues, American Agricultural Chemical, Colgate, and others, which had been bid up rather aggressively in the last few weeks, and most of these came back rather well in the late dealings.

Outstanding net declines elsewhere included Sloss-Sheffield Steel and Iron, 9 points; Stromberg-Carlson, 5 1/2 points in light of recovery; Peoples Gas, 3 1/2; National Tea, 3 1/2; Abbott Laboratories, 3 1/2; United Drug, 3; Reynolds Tobacco B, 6 1/2; and the Porto Rican tobacco issue, General Electric, which was selling at a number of the bank stocks.

Here and there through the list a stock was firm throughout the session and some others showed a tendency to rally after Saturday's closing quotations on the late upturn. Among the independent gainers were Vanadium, the United States Rubber, the United States Copper, Continental Can, American Express, Goodrich, Consolidated Cigar and Vicks Chemical.

News of the day was not especially interesting marketwise in its makeup, but the money market maintained a comparatively easy tone, with call loans falling at 4 1/2 per cent. after the concessions under that figure were reported in the outside market.

Traders did not lose sight of the fact that this week's reaction was interrupted by the holiday on Wednesday, and this consideration was influential in causing the trading element to go a little slower. Opinion was mixed, however, that now that the matter of liquidation over-bullied stocks is in progress, it might be found that something more than a few days of reaction was needed to correct excesses which had taken months for accomplishment. For that reason a substantial part of the speculative community was inclined to hold off and give the market a chance to prove itself—at least until after the holiday.

In many quarters it had been expected that the effect of Saturday's record-breaking selling wave would have been to bring in a big accumulation of new liquidation over the weekend. Quite on the contrary, however, commission houses were found on the buying side at, or soon after, the opening, indicating that a good part of the semiprofessional element was inclined to play for a rally. Buying of the same character was again apparent in the afternoon, after the midday selling wave had run its course.

When the more volatile stocks were under pressure during the midday hours report was current in speculative quarters that the banks were tightening up on their collateral requirements. Several stocks were mentioned specifically as having been subject to revision downward in value as collateral for loans. It is never possible to get entirely authentic information on just which stocks have been so treated, such data usually coming from "underground" channels, but from the action of such shares as Montgomery Ward, Gold Dues and International Nickel and a few more one readily might have been led to believe these were in the group affected.

In foreign exchange, sterling continued to advance, reaching $4.87 11/16, for cables, the highest price recorded this year. Most continental rates were steady to firm, but gold yielded a point as did Belgians, and German and Swedish rates advanced slightly and the peseta gained 3 points. Chinese exchanges were lower.

Mishap Halts Auto Mark Try; 253-Mile Speed Is Claimed

Keech, in Triplex Speedster, Slightly Scalded as Hose Line Bursts, Throwing Steam; Tide Prevents Lockhart From Best Effort.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Feb. 20 (A.P.).—J. M. White, Philadelphia manufacturer, declared tonight that his 36-cylinder triplex racer attained a speed of "more than 265 miles an hour just before it entered the mile stretch while making a test run today preparatory to an attempt to shatter the new world's speed record of 206.95 miles an hour established by the Englishman, Capt. Malcolm Campbell, in his Bluebird Special. Shortly after it crossed the wire at the beginning of the mile stretch a hose connection on the front motor broke, forcing Ray Keech, of Philadelphia, to slow down the machine in order to keep it under control. The average time for the mile was 1.88 miles an hour. Keech suffered minor burns about the leg and hip from steam which shot from the loose connection. He was removed to a hospital, where it was said he would be discharged tomorrow.

HOOVER DECLARES COMMUNITY CHEST REAL DEMOCRACY

Represents Greatest Advance in Modern Charity, Secretary Tells Conference.

POTENTIAL DANGERS SEEN BY BOOKMAN

Banquet Held, and Today
There Will Be Another Session; Received by Coolidge.

Herbert Hoover, Secretary of Commerce, in making his first public address since becoming an avowed candidate for the Republican nomination for President, last night confined his remarks entirely to social and welfare problems at the banquet of the delegates to the citizens' conference studying community chest problems at the Mayflower Hotel.

Mr. Hoover was introduced by John Lord O'Brien, vice chairman of the Buffalo (N. Y.) Community Chest Council, who referred to the Secretary of Commerce as "the man who showed his country how to find its soul during a period of great physical and spiritual perplexity."

The time when the community chest defense has passed, Secretary Hoover said. "It represents the greatest advance in modern charity. It has inspired confidence in the administration of public welfare and has eliminated the element of misjudged sentimentality," he said.

Givers Have Been Increased.

Secretary Hoover explained that the community chest movement has systematically increased the number of givers and has decreased the overlapping of social agencies.

"Charity may be either a democracy or a benevolent despotism," he stated. "The community chest represents real democracy." Mr. Hoover said one of the most important questions before the American people today is the relationship between government and the private agencies.

"I believe that time will come," Secretary Hoover said, "when we will consider all public health work the primary duty of the community chest and the State, and not of private charity."

C. M. Bookman, of Cincinnati, president of the Association of Community Chests and Councils, which is sponsoring the two-day conference at the Mayflower, which concludes today, also spoke. His subject was "The Community Chest, a New Factor in Community Welfare."

Mr. Bookman declared that "the community chest resulted in a great forward stride in putting social work on a budgetary basis. It has contributed successful methods of money raising and has forced better cooperation between agencies. The result has been that social work, wherever found, has gained in strength and influence."

Word of Caution Expressed.

The speaker, however, cautioned against the potential danger of community chests, such as arbitrarily putting the stamp of approval or disapproval on community activities and organizations and the tendency to create a placidness growing out of smooth running organizations.

One of the chief difficulties confronting the community chest movement, Mr. Bookman said, is the lack of understanding between national agencies and local communities. The need for immediate and intelligent cooperation here is vital, Mr. Bookman explained.

The more than 300 leaders in the business and professional world who attended the banquet, assembled yesterday at the Mayflower Hotel for the opening of a two-day discussion on community responsibility for human welfare.

The real business of the conference will start at today's session, beginning at 9 o'clock this morning when the first of eight round table discussions covering virtually every phase of community chest and welfare work will be held.

The purpose of the conference, of which Col. William Cooper Procter, of Cincinnati, is chairman, is to discuss how community chest and welfare work can best be supported, how much welfare work is necessary in various cities and apportionment of community chest funds.

At a luncheon yesterday afternoon in the Mayflower Hotel, Louis Marshall, of New York, president of the citizens committee, told delegates to the conference the outstanding duty of the community chest movement is to interest men of wealth in the needs of the unfortunate and to acquaint them with existing agencies and institutions caring for them so that they do not waste their money gifts on new institutions and agencies which are not needed.

"Haphazard charity damages both the giver and the receiver," Dr. W. H. Faunce, president of Brown University, also a speaker at the luncheon, said. "Thoughtless, random benevolence is getting out of date. We can no longer depend on the generosity of the rich. We must have a system of distribution. Without ceasing to be personal benevolence must be scientific."

Col. Procter, in his opening address to the delegates attending the luncheon, stated that community chests have been so useful in training leaders in community development generally that they have accomplished more for the community as a whole than for the actual charities, even though they are raising approximately $60,000,000 a year for social welfare work in the United States. Welfare workers need the guidance of leading laymen in their different communities, Col. Procter said.

President Coolidge received the delegates and their wives at a reception at the White House yesterday afternoon at 8 o'clock.

HYDE BOYS FORM CLUB FOR PLANE MODEL TEST

Certificates to Be Awarded
First Contestants Showing
Ships That Fly.

ADULTS WILL BE JUDGES

Hyde School has the right idea in regard to the airplane model contest being conducted by the Washington Post.

The contest editor last week received a letter from one of the teachers of this progressive school, inclosing coupons and the names of sixteen boys who desired membership in the Airplane Model League of America. Membership in this league, which is headed by Commander Byrd as honorary president, is free.

The Hyde School boys will work together as a club in their classroom and will construct planes to be entered in the contest to be held under the auspices of The Washington Post, with a chance of winning a trip to the national contest, to be conducted by The American Boy at Detroit. Hyde School has no monopoly on this plan.

Any school class in Washington can join the A. M. L. A. as individuals and work as a club on planes to be entered in the contest. By the way, there are some beautiful certificates to be awarded the boys who first build planes and fly them in the presence of an adult witness. The contest editor will tell you all about them. The next construction contest will appear next Sunday in The Junior Post. For the benefit of any who missed the first article in last Sunday's Washington Post, there are still a few copies available at the headquarters, Room 40, Post Building.

BUS TERMINAL AIMED AT IN PROPOSED ORDER

Harland Would Abolish Parking on 12th Street at Mt.
Vernon Station.

CENTER POLES MUST GO

The public Utilities Commission yesterday asked Director of Traffic William H. Harland to abolish all parking in Twelfth street northwest between D street and Pennsylvania avenue to provide accommodation for cars and other vehicles bringing passengers to the terminus of the Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Electric Railway. This action followed a protest by the railway against use of the street in front of its terminus as a starting point for Leon Arnold's Virginia motor buses, and is a substitute for the requested order on Arnold to seek another terminus.

Center trolley poles in Wisconsin avenue from River road to the District line were ordered removed and side-pole span wire construction substituted when the projected widening of that thoroughfare takes place this year.

Sixteenth street buses of the Washington Rapid Transit Co. were ordered rerouted through Longfellow street in looping back at the end of the line. For their 20-minute meal-time layovers the buses were ordered to stop in Colorado avenue northwest north of Kennedy street instead of west Fourteenth street, as heretofore, from that point to loop around Colorado avenue and temporarily back at the end of the line. The next construction project to occur between 10 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. and between 6:35 and 8 p. m.

The purpose of the change is to facilitate the transfer between the Maryland and Sixteenth street bus lines of the company. Passengers making the transfer will have to walk only one bus length, whereas formerly they had to walk 100 yards in the mud during and following wet weather.

Word of Caution Expressed.

The speaker, however, cautioned against the potential danger of community chests, such as arbitrarily putting the stamp of approval or disapproval on community activities and organizations and the tendency to create a placidness growing out of smooth running organizations.

One of the chief difficulties confronting the community chest movement, Mr. Bookman said, is the lack of understanding between national agencies and local communities. The need for immediate and intelligent cooperation here is vital, Mr. Bookman explained.

The more than 300 leaders in the business and professional world who attended the banquet, assembled yesterday at the Mayflower Hotel for the opening of a two-day discussion on community responsibility for human welfare.

The real business of the conference will start at today's session, beginning at 9 o'clock this morning when the first of eight round table discussions covering virtually every phase of community chest and welfare work will be held.

The purpose of the conference, of which Col. William Cooper Procter, of Cincinnati, is chairman, is to discuss how community chest and welfare work can best be supported, how much welfare work is necessary in various cities and apportionment of community chest funds.

At a luncheon yesterday afternoon in the Mayflower Hotel, Louis Marshall, of New York, president of the citizens committee, told delegates to the conference the outstanding duty of the community chest movement is to interest men of wealth in the needs of the unfortunate and to acquaint them with existing agencies and institutions caring for them so that they do not waste their money gifts on new institutions and agencies which are not needed.

"Haphazard charity damages both the giver and the receiver," Dr. W. H. Faunce, president of Brown University, also a speaker at the luncheon, said. "Thoughtless, random benevolence is getting out of date. We can no longer depend on the generosity of the rich. We must have a system of distribution. Without ceasing to be personal benevolence must be scientific."

Col. Procter, in his opening address to the delegates attending the luncheon, stated that community chests have been so useful in training leaders in community development generally that they have accomplished more for the community as a whole than for the actual charities, even though they are raising approximately $60,000,000 a year for social welfare work in the United States. Welfare workers need the guidance of leading laymen in their different communities, Col. Procter said.

CITIZENSHIP SCHOOL TO GIVE BALL TONIGHT

Costumes of 54 Nations to Land Color to Mardi
Gras Dance.

Students and alumni of the Americanization School will give a Mardi Gras ball at the City Club tonight.

Costumes of 54 nations from which the students came and costumes typical of American customs and traditions will lend color to the affair. Popular music of the different nations will be played.

Mrs. Coolidge, Chief Justice and Mrs. Walter I. McCoy Assistant Secretary of Labor and Mrs. W. W. Husband, Dr. and Mrs. Henry B. Learned, Dr. and Mrs. G. P. Bowerman, Mrs. Jessie Cunningham, Mr. and Mrs. John T. Moore, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. F. Gross are patrons and patronesses for the ball.

A grand march preceding the ball will be reviewed by a committee of local artists, who will award costume prizes. The committee in charge of arrangements consists of Albert Blum, chairman; Miss Maude E. Alton, W. F. Lutz, Mrs. J. F. Gross, Mrs. John T. Moore, Mrs. H. C. Kiernan, Mrs. Marie Halasi, Miss Thelma Menick, Sam Desoff and Miss Anna Frank.

Secretary Wilbur will also present autographed awards to the children who assisted in selling pictures of Old Ironsides to aid the national fund for reconditioning the old ship. He will make a short address.

Husband Cites Wife's Arrest.

Leland L. Rollins, a fireman, attached to No. 327 Engine, Benning, whose wife, Mrs. Frances M. Rollins, 751 Eighth street southeast, sued him for maintenance April 25, 1927, asked the Equity Court yesterday to vacate an order requiring him to pay $40 a month alimony and to permit him to amend his bill for absolute divorce. Affidavits signed by two detectives, relate the alleged arrest of Mrs. Rollins and a man on February 11, on a statutory charge. Attorney G. Lyle Hughes appeared for Rollins.

Grant Will Address Meeting of Chamber

Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant 3d, executive officer of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, will speak on the industrial development of Washington from the aspect of city planning at the regular monthly meeting of the Washington Chamber of Commerce tonight at the Willard Hotel.

Two committee reports will be submitted to the board for action. These are the report of Martin A. Lease, chairman of the committee devoting its efforts to the industrial exposition to be held by the chamber at the Auditorium next month, and the report of the committee on fraudulent educational institutions, described as "diploma mills" by William O. Tufts, which recently was approved by the board of directors.

Death of Utterback Declared Suicide

A certificate of death declaring that Clarence D. Utterback committed suicide by jumping from the third-story window of Soldiers Home Hospital early Sunday morning yesterday was issued after a coroner's jury had investigated.

It was stated that an autopsy performed on the body revealed several broken ribs, which punctured the lungs of the patient. The case attracted attention when the coroner, Dr. J. Ramsay Nevitt, after a superficial examination of the body at the time of its discovery said he failed to discover any broken bones.

$85,000 in Mary E. Roth Estate.

Mrs. Mary E. Roth, who died February 7, left an estate valued at about $85,000 according to the petition for letters testamentary filed yesterday in Probate Court by her niece, Mary E. Landgraf, who is named executrix in the will. The deceased was also survived by a nephew, Frank C. Stehle, of Mechanicsburg, Pa. The estate includes property in Mechanicsburg.

APPOINTEES. Representative William R. Green, who is retiring as chairman of the House ways and means committee, left, congratulating Representative Willis C. Hawley, of Oregon, right, his successor. Representative Green will resign from the House when his appointment as judge of the United States Court of Claims here is confirmed by the Senate.

G. W. U. TO GRADUATE STUDENTS TOMORROW

Eighty-five George Washington University students will be graduated tomorrow afternoon at Memorial Continental Hall in the annual midwinter convocation exercises which start at 2 o'clock. Invitations may be obtained by applying at the office of the secretary of the university.

Dr. William Fletcher Russell, dean of the Teachers College, Columbia University, will address the graduates. Dr. Floyd Heck Marvin will be installed as university president by Dr. John Bell Lerner, president of the board of trustees of the university. Dr. Marvin will speak briefly to the graduates.

Tonight the George Washington celebration at the Mayflower Hotel, the annual ball which takes the form of a "Garden Party at Mount Vernon," will be given.

Ambulance Plane Fliers Commended

Chief Aviation Pilots Patrick J. Burne and Harold I. June, U. S. N., Hampton Roads, Va., were commended yesterday by Rear Admiral R. H. Leigh, chief, Bureau of Navigation, for excellent performance of duty, December 18, when an ambulance plane they were piloting on emergency duty, made a forced landing.

On that date a call was received for the ambulance plane from the Coast Guard Station at Avon to transport a Mrs. Meekins, who was ill, to Hampton Roads for transfer to St. Vincent Hospital in Norfolk. The fliers started north with Mrs. Meekins and her husband, when a starboard motor broke down, necessitating a forced landing. They made the difficult landing under adverse conditions with their heavy load on a dark night.
